Back to Work

Following U.S. government "taking over" the huge North American Aviation Corporation plant at Inglewood, Cal., with the aid of armed troops, workers enter the gates. The plant produces one-quarter of the airplanes in U.S., has orders for $196,000,000 for the U.S. and Britain.

Warplanes for Britain and the U.S. start rolling off the assembly lines again at the North American Aviation Company's Inglewood, Cal., plant as soldiers stand guard to protect workers from "wildcat strikers."

Lieut.-Col. Charles E. Branshaw, U.S. army, talks to newsmen after his troops had dispersed "wildcat strikers" and reopened the North American Aviation plant.

Internment Ends for 117

Canadian Women Freed From Camps in France

OTTAWA (CP)—All Canadian women interned in France are being released, said a statement issued by the External Affairs Department today.

The total is stated to be 117.

The department said it has been informed the German civilian internment authorities in occupied France had explained this decision to the United States representative in Paris.

The department recalled that on May 29 a list of Canadian women reported interned in occupied France was published.

At that time it was stated representations had been made by the Canadian government through the U.S. government, stating German women had not been interned in Canada merely on the ground of their nationality.

R.C.A.F. Group Reaches Britain

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—Scores more Canadian airmen have arrived in Britain, eager as the thousands preceding them to get into action against the Germans.

Graduates of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan, they include sergeant pilots, air gunners and observers from all parts of Canada.

Sergt.-Pilot Mac Fraser of Vancouver said they had a "swell" voyage across the Atlantic, adding: "The people are good here and we like it fine."

Troops' Fares Down

Sailors, soldiers and airmen are going to be able to travel more cheaply than anyone else in Canada.

Defence Minister Ralston told the Commons in Ottawa this afternoon men of the armed forces, proceeding on embarkation or annual leave, would be able to buy railway tickets for one-third of the present fare.

This subject has been a bone of contention ever since the war started. Poor parents had to send hard-earned savings to their sons, to buy railway tickets, if they wanted to see them. Wives were forced to save monthly so their husbands could come home on annual leave.

The minister said uniformed men now received a return ticket for the price of a single fare. The charge to the general public for a return ticket was twice the price of a single fare, less 10 per cent.

The railways agreed to absorb one-third of the former rate and the government would contribute the other third.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prospects of the House of Commons adjourning for the summer by Friday appeared bright this afternoon according to party whips.

1,334 Planes in May

WASHINGTON (AP)—The office of production management announced this afternoon that military aircraft manufacturers delivered 1,334 airplanes during May.

It did not disclose how many went to the U.S. army and navy and how many to Great Britain.

Recruiting Off 4

Twenty-five men enlisted in the army in British Columbia yesterday, four fewer than on Monday.

Military district headquarters returns for Tuesday are:

Victoria	5
Vancouver	11
Cranbrook	1
Vernon	3
Kamloops	2
Nanaimo	3
Total for all B.C.	25

Those enlisting in Victoria were C. W. Drake, laundry expert; S. L. O'Connell, clerk; T. W. Rhodes, Hedley, B.C.; J. E. Malcolm, salesman, and M. J. Kelley, clerk.

ARMY GETS 10,344

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Ralston told the House of Commons this afternoon 10,344 men have been enlisted and attested since the recruiting campaign started.

This represents 32 per cent of the objective of 32,000 men but does not include a number enlisted before the campaign started officially.

Old School Tie Out

LONDON (CP)—Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today the diplomatic service will be opened to deserving candidates without sources of private income.

Mr. Eden said women, too, will be eligible for promotion to the most responsible positions.

Engineer Found Dead in Cabin

POWELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—Believed to have suffered a heart attack, Fred Wickers, 54, chief engineer of the Ss. Texada, was found dead in his cabin when the boat docked here today from Vancouver. He had been a member of the Texada crew for many years. An inquest will be held here.

Wickers, a Dane, leaves his widow and two children in San Francisco.

2 MORE STRIKES ENDED IN U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—C.I.O. leaders announced this afternoon the end of two strikes which had tied up production of aluminum parts necessary for production of bomber engines, as the United States army reported a "100 per cent turnout" back at work in the commandeered North American Aviation Plant at Inglewood, Calif.

At the same time in Washington Secretary of Navy Knox said that subversive and communist elements using labor union activity as a "cloak to attack American freedom and liberty" from now on would be "proceeded against as enemies of the country."

Paul Martin, president of the C.I.O. die casters at Cleveland, said some men on the midnight shift would go back into five Aluminum Company of America plants here tonight and full production would be resumed tomorrow.

Almost simultaneously an agreement was reached to end the tie-up of six Bohn Aluminum and Brass Corporation plants at Detroit.

Allies Fight Vichy Force In Damascus Outskirts

Canadian and Associated Press
A dispatch from Damascus said the Allied columns driving toward that Syrian city were attacking heavily east of Kissoué, 10 miles from the city tonight, and were encountering bitter French resistance.

Toward Beirut, Lebanon, the Allied advance along the Mediterranean coast continued, supported by guns of naval squadrons offshore.

Earlier sources in London had said the Allied drive into Syria had reached the outskirts of Damascus, and that ancient city of the French mandate was expected to be in British hands tonight.

See Minarets As They Battle

Giving detail to the Middle East general headquarters' bare report of "satisfactory progress," this source said the British-Free French forces had reached Kissoué, and within easy sight of the minarets of Damascus.

This source said Kissoué could be regarded as part of the Damascus defence system, and that resistance to the Allies still could be described as "patchy."

"Stiff opposition," however, was reported encountered by British forces landed on the Lebanon coast north of Tyre under the guns of warships of the Royal Navy.

Fighting also was reported at Merdjayoun, inland in Lebanon, where British forces advanced from the northern tip of Palestine.

Sources in London said several hundred prisoners had been taken on all fronts, but it was not certain whether these had been captured in battle or had given up after mere "token resistance."

Launching of an Allied drive into eastern Syria in an attempt to seize the important air base at Palmyra was reported as Britons awaited word the ancient city of Damascus had fallen to the Allies.

Units of the desert-wise forces which participated in the recent fighting in Iraq presumably were taking part in the push toward Palmyra, which the Royal Air Force has bombed several times because it was used as a German air base. It lies approximately 150 miles west of the Iraq frontier and 130 miles from the Lebanese coast.

French defenders of Syria and Lebanon were offering only half-hearted resistance, official quarters in London said.

The Allies said their forces were deliberately proceeding slowly in an effort to avoid clashes with the French wherever possible.

It was disclosed the Allies were making extensive use of loudspeakers in appealing to French troops to join the Free French forces, and were distributing large quantities of food to gain support of the natives.

These tactics were proving effective.

Vichy Admits Allies Crossed Litani

In Vichy tonight it was admitted British forces had crossed the Litani River in their drive toward the Lebanon capital, Beirut. The river is 40 miles south of the city.

Before the crossing, Vichy claimed its forces had thrown back repeated attacks, despite a heavy bombardment from British naval units concentrated off the coast.

Military dispatches to Vichy during the day said forces had begun a counterattack against allied troops advancing on Damascus.

At the same time Vichy said an allied column moving up the Euphrates valley from Iraq had reached French border outposts at Abou Kemal, where the oil pipeline from the Mosul oil fields enters eastern Syria.

A British spokesman at Jerusalem said more than 600 French troops had come over to the allied forces Tuesday as they advanced into Syria and Lebanon.

From Haifa, Palestine, came word today that British anti-aircraft guns shot down a hostile plane which approached Haifa last night. The plane crashed northeast of the port.

The German high command earlier today had claimed an "effective" German air attack had been made on British fuel deposits and port facilities at Haifa from "new bases." Several explosions were said to have been caused.

The enemy communique did not specify when this attack was made or where it originated. Presumably it was the same raid as that claimed yesterday by the German news agency DNB as having been carried out Monday night.

Chased Back To Aleppo

British reports said the raiders came from a base at Aleppo, Syria, and were chased back there.

Jerusalem had an air raid alarm last night, but no incidents have been reported from there.

Manitoban Joins Cabinet

J.T. Thorson New Minister Of National War Services

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today announced the appointment of Joseph T. Thorson, Liberal, Selkirk, Man., as Minister of National War Services.

He succeeds Hon. J. G. Gardiner, who resigned the war services portfolio to devote all his time to agriculture.

Mr. Thorson, the son of Icelandic parents, was born in Manitoba 52 years ago. A student of languages, he graduated from Manitoba College and went to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar. He was dean of the Manitoba Law School from 1921 to 1926. Since then he has practiced as a barrister in Winnipeg. He saw service overseas during the first Great War.

Mr. King, informing the Commons of the appointment, said the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, travel bureau and national film board had all been transferred to the Department of National War Services.

Mr. Thorson has been serving as chairman of the House committee on war expenditures which has held numerous sittings during the past few months.

Yesterday in the Commons Mr. Thorson supported continuation of the work of the committee as a means of assisting the Canadian war effort by making sure that the utmost use is made of monetary resources.

When he attended Manitoba College, Mr. Thorson first came to know the man he succeeded in office of Minister of National War Services. Mr. Gardiner was then in a class two years behind Mr. Thorson, who, as head of the college debating team, quickly recognized the ability of Mr. Gardiner as a speaker and gave him careful coaching which resulted in Mr. Gardiner being a member of victorious debating teams.

The naming of Mr. Thorson to a cabinet post boosted to 19 the number of ministers of the crown.

It came as a surprise to most people on Capitol Hill who for several weeks past had been speculating on possible nominees, among them Brooke Claxton, Liberal, Montreal-St. Lawrence-St. George, and Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, associate Deputy Minister of National War Services.

Scouts' Beloved 'Uncle Dan' Dead

SUFFERN, N.Y. (AP)—Daniel Carter Beard, one of the founders of the Boy Scouts of America, died today.

Affectionately known by millions of Boy Scouts as "Uncle Dan," he had been ill since April 20 when he contracted a cold at his 14-acre estate here.

Had he lived until June 21, Beard would have been 91. He was born in Cincinnati, son of an outstanding animal painter and brother of versatile Frank Beard, author, lecturer, college professor and cartoonist. Daniel Beard won fame as an illustrator for magazines and newspapers and illustrated Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

His life-long interest was welfare of boys. He frequently declared that just being a boy was a privilege. Once he said "I would rather be a boy than a czar or a count, and I would rather be an American boy than President of the United States."

In boyhood the navy was his ambition. He received an appointment to the naval academy, but a finger injury marred his physical examination and poor spelling pulled him down in a written test.

His fondest recollection was of Cheshire, England, in 1929. He appeared before 50,000 Scouts from 42 nations, Americans, Europeans, Asians and they all yelled at once, a world-wide salute to their beloved "Uncle Dan." His most famous work was "American Boy's Handy Book."

Day in Ottawa

OTTAWA

Commons cleared the order paper of government business and now has only the estimates to deal with, before adjourning for the summer and giving members a chance to get away from Ottawa's heat.

Soldier Jobs Assured

Men who enlist for active service in the Canadian army are to be assured by law of getting their jobs back.

Labor Minister McLarty told the House legislation, now being prepared along lines of a British measure, will be introduced to provide that employers must re-instate men in posts no less favorable than what they might have attained had they not enlisted.

$48,453,183 More

To pay provincial governments which vacate the income tax field, Finance Minister Ilsley introduced supplementary estimates to provide $45,000,000. This will be enough to cover only half a year, he said.

In addition, $3,453,183 is provided, including $395,000 for improvement of cheese and cheese factories, $356,000 for more officials to collect more income tax, $496,599 for more Royal Canadian Mounted Police, $238,500 for civil airports, and to provide $15 a day to the 24 members of Parliament serving during the summer on War Expenditures.

Altogether, non-war estimates this session now total $516,584,822. This is apart from the war appropriation bill authorizing $1,300,000.

Big Salary Curb Urged

Senators, after nearly a week's rest, met to give second reading to the budget bill imposing income tax increases.

Said Senator Meighen: "The time has come when it is a province of government to exercise some control over salaries. I don't mean government salaries—I mean corporate salaries. I have never been a believer in those big, stupendous, mountainous salaries. Minority shareholders have nothing to say in regard to fixing vast salaries of high officers of corporations."

Too Many Judges

Canada has a surplus of judges drawing fat salaries, Senator Meighen told his fellow-senators when a bill came before them for the appointment of a stipendiary magistrate in the Yukon.

"Appalling is the surplus of high court judges in Canada," said Meighen. "Canadians would be shocked if they knew the number of judges in high courts in the western provinces and the amount of work done by such courts. There are also too many county court judges in the west." Bill for the Yukon magistrate, however, was given third reading.

Profits 40 to 50 Per Cent

Back in the Commons, Jean Francois Pouliot, Liberal, Temiscouata, urged abolition of the Minister Howe's Munitions and Supply Department and said:

"I wonder whether the chairman of the House Committee of War Expenditures did not have instructions from the minister not to touch that department."

Committee Chairman Joseph Thorson (Liberal, Selkirk) denied he had received any such instructions.

Howard Green (Conservative, Vancouver South) said the committee, made up of 18 Liberals and six Conservatives, used "steam-roller tactics" against opposition members, and "pulled punches" when dealing with certain defence expenditures. He went on:

"There is evidence that air observer schools operated by former civilian flying clubs—private companies—are making up to 40 to 50 per cent profit."

Clash

John Diefenbaker (Conservative, Lake Centre) clashed with government members when he questioned whether members of the committee were to be able to tell Parliament of evidence of waste in public spending that they heard behind closed doors.

"Has the honorable member any charges to make?" asked Mr. Thorson.

"What about these insinuations?" asked Mr. Howe.

Diefenbaker said that if Thorson wanted to know if there were any evidence of over-expenditure, he would refer to it.

"Make your charges," said Mr. Howe.

"You sit down," exclaimed Mr. Hanson.

"I am not going to sit down," Mr. Howe shot back. "It is a debate anyone can take part in."

"You are not in charge today," Mr. Hanson said. "You sit down and let the honorable member make his speech."

Diefenbaker continued without further interruption.

95-Cent Wheat Basis

Dr. Thomas Donnelly (Liberal, Wood Mountain) estimated prairie farmers would get the equivalent of 95 cents a bushel for wheat this year, for No. 1 northern at Fort William. He arrived at this estimate by taking the 70 cents minimum guarantee and adding the other forms of government assistance. The $35,000,000 appropriated for acreage reduction grants worked out at 15 cents a bushel on the 230,000,000 bushels farmers may deliver this year. Payments under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act to farmers with crop failures worked out at about 5 cents a bushel.

On the basis of prospects, participation certificates given farmers on wheat delivered at the minimum price should be worth 5 cents a bushel.

With farmers making sacrifices, elevator companies which had reduced from 1.30 to 1.45 of a cent a day per bushel last year their storage charges, should be made to cut them still further, Dr. Donnelly said.

Rev. A. M. Nicholson (C.C.F., MacKenzie) said the farmers' minimum should be raised above 70 cents a bushel.

D.O.C.R.

Debate on the Defence of Canada Regulations turned on the recommendation of the committee that three men instead of one comprise the advisory committee which report to the Minister of Justice on protests by interned persons against their detention.

Justice Minister Lapointe said this and other recommendations of the committee, which reviewed the regulations in secret sessions extending over the past few months, would be adopted.

Members including A. H. Bence (Conservative, Saskatoon City) said they wanted the findings of advisory committees made binding on the minister, but others, including Mr. Hanson, believed responsibility should rest with the minister. Some suggested internees should have a trial before being detained.

Lapointe said internment was not in the nature of punishment for a crime. It was a measure taken for the safety of the state and the procedure of a trial was not appropriate.

M. J. Coldwell, acting C.C.F. House leader, said the changes proposed in the regulations would have a liberalizing effect, but that he wished they had gone further. At the same time, he said Communist and Nazi elements were at work in Canada, and the vigilance was necessary.

Coal Mine Troubles

Plea that proceedings against coal mine production stoppages to be taken under Defence of Canada Regulations be applied equally to companies and miners was made by Clarence Gillis (C.C.F., Cape Breton South).

He said 99 per cent of organized labor troubles in Nova Scotia miners were due to absentee management and lack of autonomy of the local management officers.

"I think that order-in-council was inspired from Nova Scotia," Gillis said. "During the past months there have been some troubles in that section of the country."

"If this order-in-council is to mean anything, it should work both ways. If it is not to be applied to those sections where mines are idle because it is not profitable to operate, then it should not be applied to those sections where it is profitable to operate."

Italian Officers Leave Beirut

ISTANBUL (Delayed A.P.)—A Nazi report from Aleppo, Syria, claimed today (Tuesday) 12 Italian officers and one German of the Axis armistice commission were leaving Beirut, Lebanon, on orders of their governments to establish temporary headquarters at Aleppo.

It was expected, the report said, that the commission would leave Syria as soon as there was evidence the British and Free French invasion of the Levant states was successful.

R.A.F. Finds German Cruiser

Eugen Bombed

LONDON (CP)—An Air Ministry communiqué today said:

"Last night a strong force of bomber command aircraft attacked docks at Brest, where a Hipper class cruiser believed to be the Prinz Eugen is taking refuge along with the battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau. A large weight of bombs was dropped on docks and anchorages."

No specific claim was made to any of the bombs having hit the 10,000-ton, 8-inch gun Prinz Eugen.

The cruiser accompanied the German battleship Bismarck at the time she sank the British battlecruiser Hood. The Prinz Eugen, however, parted company with the Bismarck soon after the Hood had been sunk.

A widespread hunt for the Prinz Eugen followed.

(Other dispatches today said there was speculation as to whether the Prinz Eugen had sneaked into Brest because she had been damaged by shell fire in the Hood-Bismarck engagement.)

Previous Royal Air Force bombings of Brest were believed to have damaged the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau so severely that they are unable to leave their anchorage.

ST. NAZAIRE BOMBED

Coastal command planes last night also bombed docks at St. Nazaire, on the Nazi-occupied Atlantic coast of France and air bases at Mandal and Stavanger, in occupied Norway.

A coastal command torpedo plane scored a hit amidships on an Axis supply ship of about 2,000 tons off the Norway coast, but the communiqué did not say whether the vessel was sunk.

From all these operations, it said, one coastal command plane is missing.

NAZI BAGGED

How a heavy bomber parried attacks by two Messerschmitt 109s off the Netherlands Frisian Island of Vlieland, was described by the Air Ministry news service.

An 18-minute engagement was fought about 100 feet above the water. The fighters came in simultaneously, one from the port side and one from starboard, firing cannon and machine guns.

The rear gunner of the British bomber downed one of them in the last of the three attacks. "He just slid off his turn into the sea," said the captain of the bomber.

The remaining Messerschmitt made seven or eight further attacks which the bomber dodged.

"We could see his bullets going into the water beyond our wing tips," the captain declared. A sharp burst by the front gunner finally drove off the enemy.

QUIET NIGHT

Activity of the Nazi air force over the British Isles last night was on a small scale.

One point near the coast in southeastern England was bombed and damaged and some casualties were reported in South Wales.

Press Praises Churchill

LONDON — Prime Minister Churchill's defence of his policies in the Commons was praised generally by the British press today, but some papers questioned whether the present government set-up was sufficient to defeat Germany.

The Times said: "The debate arose out of a very real and widespread feeling that the central planning of the war could be fortified, that in some directions the powers conferred on the government are not being fully used. What the people want to know is whether the present team . . . is working the country up to the maximum output of which it is capable."

Daily Mirror said: "There comes a time when confidence collapses under the pressure of events. It came in the last war. . . . There are signs it is coming again. For, as yesterday's debate in the House showed, men perfectly loyal to Prime Minister Churchill as a national leader are beginning to ask whether appeals for confidence really express anything but parliamentary bluff."

Minister of State Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said: "The Prime Minister put things back in perspective. . . . We couldn't stop Hitler in Crete, but we did him all the harm we could. That is the substance of what Churchill had to say."

Odds Against Weygand In Clash With Vichy

Henry Noble Hall — diplomat-journalist—lived in France for 30 years. During them, especially those spent as First Secretary of the British Embassy in Paris until the fall of France, he came to know intimately many of the Frenchmen who today hold their country's fate in the balance. This article is an analysis of Gen. Weygand and the background of his struggle against the men of Vichy.

By HENRY NOBLE HALL

When Foch was dying he exhorted France to "send for Weygand" whenever she felt herself to be in danger. When the Syrian situation became critical, this lean, lithe man, barely five feet four, with his thin lips and restless eyes set in the parchment-like skin of his small aristocratic face, whipped over to Vichy from Africa. There can be no doubt that he threw everything he had into a final attempt to prevent Petain putting into effect Darlan's plan for full co-operation with Germany and the free use of Syrian and perhaps other French naval air bases in North Africa and elsewhere.

Weygand has royal blood in his veins, and the keenest sense of honor it is possible to conceive. He is a most devout Catholic, goes to mass every morning if he possibly can, and is a stern, almost brutal disciplinarian, not only with his subordinates but with himself. He is impressed with his own importance, and since the collapse of France, which he was powerless to avert (he was only given command of the French armies on May 20, six days after the Germans had smashed Corap's army and had broken through at Sedan), Weygand must more than once have dreamed of coming back at some critical time of the war, to retrieve his military reputation.

Like Petain, Maxime Weygand profoundly distrusts politicians, especially those of the Laval type. He has never been on especially good terms with Admiral Darlan, for the French Army and the French Navy are intensely jealous of one another, and Weygand looks upon himself as far better suited than Darlan to take Petain's place as head of the French State. Now that Laval has won over Darlan to his pro-German policy, Weygand's opposition is bound to become more bitter.

RESISTANCE TO ALL

What Weygand doubtless urged was resistance alike to either German or British attack on Syria, the policy to which he is pledged as regards North Africa. The seizure of Syrian air bases by the Germans precipitated British action.

The men of Vichy who strain every nerve to force Petain to take action tantamount to re-entering the war on Germany's side, are actuated by the belief that Germany will win the war or in any case cannot be defeated and driven back within her own borders.

Also, they know that the day they cease to be under the protection of the Nazis and the French people regain their freedom, their lives will be forfeit and they will be swept away in a burst of popular execration, for the people of France are solidly anti-German at heart.

KNOWS AMERICA'S POTENTIAL STRENGTH

But if the politicians, for their own ends, are minimizing the importance of American support for Britain, Weygand and War Minister Huntziger are in no doubt as to what it really means or that it will ultimately turn the scales of victory.

As Foch's chief of staff in the last war, Weygand not only prepared the reports on America's actual part in the campaign that ended the war, but he made a special study of America's potential strength and what force the United States could have exerted had it been necessary.

This time Weygand knows exactly what America is doing and is going to do to help Britain win the war, for President Roosevelt sent Mr. Murray, of the United States Embassy in Paris, to Africa to tell him.

WAR MAY TAKE UNEXPECTED TURN

Weygand knows Syria well; indeed, Syria today is what Weygand made it. A word from him and what is left of the French army in Syria would join with the British in repelling the Germans.

But Weygand is a soldier who heretofore has obeyed Petain, who in turn has time and time again given his word of honor that he will never allow the Germans to occupy French naval bases in North Africa or have the French fleet. Yet all reports indicate that Darlan has persuaded Petain that Syria, being only a mandated territory, is not part of the French Empire, and that he has agreed to co-operate far beyond the harsh terms of the armistice.

Press Protests BBC News Practice

LONDON (CP) — The Empire Press Union has protested "emphatically" against the British Broadcasting Corporation being allowed to broadcast to the Empire news which, because of time releases and censorship, is withheld from the overseas Empire press.

The union adopted a resolution urging regulations providing for identical time releases and censorship regulations to apply jointly to the BBC and overseas Empire press.

Copies of the resolution were sent to Prime Minister Churchill and the Ministry of Information, and circulated for publication in newspapers of the Empire.

Before passing the resolution the meeting was told of instances in which important news had been broadcast to the Empire as much as 3½ hours before Canadian and other Empire newspapers were permitted to receive it.

'Can Happen Here' Says Parsons

CRANBROOK (CP) — The navy, army and air force were protection for Canada from invasion, while the civilian protection organizations in Canada were designed to protect Canada from dangers within the country, Commissioner T. W. S. Parsons of the Provincial Police told a meeting of citizens who gathered here to organize civilian protection units for this district.

Commissioner Parsons was accompanied by Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer and Inspector S. F. M. Moodie, provincial organizer for civilian protection committees. He said the purpose of the visit was to wake the people of the province out of complacency, because "it can happen here."

Inspector Moodie said that "to accomplish complete internal protection," volunteers were needed for the various branches of the work.

British to Speed Use of U.S. Planes

LONDON (CP) — J. T. C. Moore-Brabazon, Minister of Aircraft Production, told the House of Commons today there still is a "bottleneck" in receiving and assembling increased deliveries of United States aircraft.

He declared "all steps" are being taken to make the maximum number possible of aircraft available for operational flying without delay.

The minister spoke after Edgar Granville, Liberal National, had asked whether he did not believe "it would be worth while to have a separate organization of men who understand American aircraft and American methods."

The minister said this "is being done."

Jewish Firms Cleared In Jap Wheat Deal

OTTAWA

Trade Minister MacKinnon told the Commons it "would not be in the public interest" to reveal why the government grants export licenses for Canadian wheat shipments to north China and Japan, which, in turn, is reported shipping it across Russia to Germany.

Conservative House Leader Hanson said the explanation did not satisfy him.

"The reason is apparent—the heat was put on by Tokyo," he said. "Make no mistake about it, that is where the pressure came from and the government yielded."

Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East), said he believed all leaders had been made acquainted with the reasons why the permits were granted.

"Not so far as the leader of the opposition is concerned," said Hanson. "Canadian wheat is going to Japan and it is all wrong—I don't care who ships it."

MacInnis asked if any other commodities, such as lumber, were being shipped to Japan and MacKinnon answered that he would make sure and advise the House later.

Jap 'Blackmail'

"Canada has attempted to buy Japan's good will by shipping wheat, but it is nothing more or less than blackmail, and the more you give in to blackmail, the more you will be blackmailed," said Victor Quelch (N.D. Acadia).

"As long as Canadian wheat is being shipped to the Axis, it is hard to ask the Canadian people to make a supreme war effort. The policy of the Canadian government on wheat sales is an appeasement policy. There was appeasement at Munich, and look at the mess it got us into."

P.S.—Have You Bought YOUR VICTORY BOND? Whatever Else You Buy This Week, BUY THAT!

MALLEKSNot Jews, But B.C. Tories

The Trade Minister denied that the wheat shipments to Japan were being made by "international Jew firms"—Bunge, Dreyfus, Laval and Continental Grain. He said the wheat was being shipped by Canada Grain Co., Vancouver, headed by Robert McKee, "appointed by the Bennett government in 1935 to the advisory committee of the Wheat Board, and a stalwart supporter of the Conservative Party."

The minister said that associated with Mr. McKee was Leon J. Ladner, former M.P. for Vancouver South, who had telegraphed that he had advised Mr. Hanson by wire of the "government's adamant refusal to grant request for export license, which at that time I thought very unfair, unless the welfare of Canada or Britain was adversely affected, because the sale was in Canada's interest."

The minister protested against members' attacks on "Winnipeg Jew firms" as being offensive.

"A champion of the Jews, eh?" Hanson interjected. "That is the idea—not politics."

"A champion of mankind," said Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

"It looks shady from the beginning," said A. C. Casselman (Conservative, Grenville-Dundas).

MacKinnon replied the company had bought the wheat before export permits were needed, and later permission was given to export orders completed before the export ban was imposed.

Gordon Ross (Liberal, Moose Jaw) said similar exports of wheat in sacks were being made by Australia to small mills in north China.

U.S. Aids Blockade

LONDON (CP)—The British government is conferring constantly with United States in an effort to prevent blockade runners carrying war materials from South America to Axis countries.

Hugh Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare, told the House of Commons that although no neutral ships were believed to be carrying war supplies "from Latin America to Germany and Italy, enemy ships occasionally make the attempt, the latest being the German motorship Lech, which was intercepted May 22."

Daylight Saving

EDMONTON (CP) — The city council here last night endorsed a resolution asking the federal government to extend to all Alberta provisions of an existing order-in-council legalizing daylight saving time in Ontario and Quebec.

"A champion of the Jews, eh?" Hanson interjected. "That is the idea—not politics."

About Crete

WE DO NOT KNOW WHAT THE PUBLIC expected Mr. Churchill to tell the House of Commons yesterday about the withdrawal of British forces from Crete in view of the bright hopes that had been entertained for this part of the Battle of the Mediterranean. His critics had promised him a lively time; some hazarded the suggestion the structure of his government might be found considerably weaker than it was when the Prime Minister won his striking vote of confidence a month ago. Some commendably plain talk marked the debate; pointed questions were asked. This is the function of the British system of government. Mr. Churchill is at his best when an adversary is using all the arts and wiles to pierce a stout armor. And although he enjoys no more than anybody else the task of rectifying failure and disappointment, he resorted to no subterfuge, no dialectical strategy, which in any way could be construed as an attempt to dodge a vital issue. He welcomed the opportunity to follow the procedure he has followed in other uncomfortable moments.

But the Prime Minister took the long view; he was by no means dismayed by this new retreat before the forces of Hitler and his gang. In the same measured tones, with the same straightforward phrasing to which the world has grown accustomed, he declared that this "sombre and ferocious battle" was "well worth fighting" and that it would play an "extremely important part" in the defence of the Nile Valley. And he wanted to know what virtue or merit could be found in "this principle of giving up without a fight any place you can not be sure of holding." Here are some of the potent questions he asked: "Suppose we had never gone to Greece? And suppose we had never defended Crete? Where would the Germans be now? Suppose that we had simply resigned territory and strategic points to them without a fight, might they not at this early stage in the campaign of 1941 already be masters of Syria and Iraq and preparing themselves for an advance into Persia?"

It will remain for the historian to supply the precise answers to these questions when the moving events of the last few weeks can be examined in their proper perspective. For the time being the rest of us will take Mr. Churchill's explanation of failure in Crete as the authentic reply to all speculation: Britain's weakness in the air. What might have been done to prevent this failure, what might have improved the situation when the fault had revealed itself, must remain in abeyance. Some compensation may be provided as the campaign in Syria develops; present prospects are, at least, encouraging. Timely action was taken there as it was in the case of Iraq. The Prime Minister gives no guarantee and makes no promise for the future. How can he? How can anybody? But there is one comfort we can extract from yesterday's proceedings in the House of Commons: The elected representatives are still in command of democratic procedure in Britain. That is one bastion from which the free people of that land will never retreat. Here is the one intangible which means so much.

Four Thousand Years

WHEN THE GERMAN DIVE-BOMBERS leveled to the ground Candia in Crete, they brought 4,000 years of history to full circle. Here arose the first civilization in Europe. Here, in the small museum, unique and irreplaceable, lay the relics which told all that is known of Minoan civilization. That was not much. They told merely that here, 4,000 years ago, men lived in a state of civilization quite highly developed in some respects. Here they lived, here—reasons that seemed to them adequate—they fought. Here they died. Now on the same ground, 4,000 years later, men who have also achieved a high state of civilization in some respects fought and died, probably for about the same reasons. The more it changes, the more it is the same.

No, Says Mr. Churchill

AGAIN MR. CHURCHILL HAS TOLD the House of Commons that he sees no reason or urgency for the establishment of an Imperial War Cabinet in which representatives of the Dominions would be included. Not even Mr. Beverley Baxter, Toronto-born Conservative member for the Wood Green division of Middlesex, was able to dent the Prime Minister's resolve, in spite of the fact that he solemnly announced he did not think the government, "in its present form, can lead us to victory, or at any rate to victory in time to prevent the universal collapse of Europe." Then the former Canadian suggested that one result of the large war cabinet was that Mr. Churchill "alone can speak for the country to America or to the nation itself." It should be noted, incidentally, a newspaper article under the signature of Mr. Baxter had appeared on Sunday, and in it its author called for a "director of Empire," consisting of the Prime Minister, Premier Menzies of Australia, Field Marshal Premier Smuts of South Africa, and Lieut.-General A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Corps now in Britain.

In his role as "government soothsayer"

—and the term is not ours—Mr. Baxter assured his Sunday-dinner public in April last year a "Blitzkrieg" threatened "to become a comic epitaph," and "it is extremely unlikely that Germany will attack France." That was when the member for Wood Green was filling the role of apologist for the Chamberlain regime. This has to be mentioned, because it could be, although it is scarcely likely it was, one of the reasons why the late Prime Minister's bitterest critic did not appear particularly impressed by the Baxterian argument. And apart from the fact that Mr. Stanley Bruce, a former Premier of Australia, explained the other day that "Dominion Prime Ministers are better informed of developments in the war" than even British cabinet members—because Commonwealth leaders get news from Downing Street every day—the Toronto-born member's omission of Prime Minister King from his list of potential Imperial War Cabinet members might conceivably have struck Mr. Churchill as a gratuitous insult to his old friend who is in charge at Ottawa.

But perhaps the member for Wood Green does not place as high a value on the Ogdensburg and Hyde Park agreements as the British Prime Minister does; at least, Mr. Churchill knows how effectively Mr. King can speak, has spoken, and will continue to speak at Washington for the British cause. Field Marshal Smuts, of course, has said flatly he can render greater service at Cape Town than he could in London. He has a big war on in his continent. It might not be stretching a point, therefore, to suggest that both these eminent overseas statesmen are in possession of information which Mr. Churchill, in his wisdom or through inadvertence, has not found it necessary to pass on to the Conservative member for Wood Green.

Half Over the Top

SEVEN FULL WORKING DAYS AFTER the books of Canada's Victory Loan issue were opened on June 2 more than $340,000,000 of the $600,000,000 objective had been reached. Monday of this week was observed as a holiday in recognition of the day set aside for honoring the birthday of King George. Banks and other financial institutions, as a consequence, were closed and a large part of the regular sales staff did not go into action. Yesterday's resumption of the campaign, however, produced $30,500,000, or $1,500,000 less than the daily quota set at the beginning. June 21 is the day on which the books will be closed.

Although yesterday was the first time the daily average had fallen below the objective, nearly $260,000,000 must be subscribed by next Saturday week, and it ought to be safe to say this will be realized and surpassed. But it is to be hoped all those who have not consulted their bank balances to determine the maximum sum they intend to put into such an excellent investment, as the Victory Loan so obviously is, will make a point of attending to the matter without delay. The objective will not be reached, of course, if owners of $1,000 or $2,000 of idle money buy a $100 bond, pin the Torch of Victory to the lapels of their coats, and consider they have done their duty. "Token" subscriptions such as these are not good enough. Not only are such investors fooling themselves and ignoring their own best interests, they are also failing to measure up to the obligation they owe to the fighting services and to the future of their country. Never for a moment should we forget that the business on which Canada has embarked is a case of survival or serfdom.

Notes

An Australian has invented a car that bends in the middle when it turns corners. That's pretty good, but we have cars that bend in all sorts of places when they turn over in ditches.

A woman writes deprecating the run of popular songs making fun of sergeant-majors and presenting them as buffoons. She wonders why some patriot does not write a song presenting sergeant-majors as worthy fellows. Has she never heard the "Oh, Oh, Oh, It's a Lovely War" song with the line "you never get up till the sergeant-major brings your breakfast up to bed?"

Canadian foster-parents of British war guests are not to be allowed under the new budget the usual $400 exemption for dependent children. Only children brought out under the official scheme rate as dependents for exemption. The Minister of Finance contends that unofficial war guests come under the heading of private charity. The Financial Post says Mr. Ilsley in refusing to change his ruling is being merely stubborn because "the distinction between taking an English child under the official scheme and taking it under some other arrangement is a distinction without a difference. Looking after war guests may be private charity but it is charity undertaken by the Canadian people to aid our fellow-countrymen who are fighting our battle overseas."

WHY WE STILL APPEASE JAPAN

From PM

There are some indications that the State Department is encouraging what is said to be a rising anti-Axis faction in the Japanese government. Some Japanese leaders are beginning to realize, or at least say they realize, that if Germany wins the war, the Nazis will run the East as well as the West, and if Germany loses the Japanese will have only the status of a partner in a bankrupt firm.

The policy of stroking the Japanese with one hand while helping the Chinese with the other is justified by officials on the ground that it is prudent to keep the Japanese busy fighting China and not encourage spreading of the eastern war while there is immediate danger of American involvement in the West. It is, in a sense, a continuation of the old appeasement policy, but somewhat softer.

TOO BIG

THE OTHER NIGHT, up in Courtenay, I came to the conclusion that our Canadian cities are too big. Courtenay is the right size—a few thousands who know each other. Victoria is too large by 50,000 at least; Vancouver is elephantine; Montreal a dinosaur which can never survive for long the competition of this age. A small town, like a small animal, is stronger for its close-knit neighborliness, the strength of people who understand each other. It does not wallow and finally collapse like a dinosaur. America is filled today with civic dinosaurs which can no longer function, which can only sit and eat if somebody feeds them, which must starve to death if left alone.

To see the people of a town like Courtenay turn out for a civic occasion is to see democracy functioning at its best. But how can true democracy function in a city where nobody knows anybody else, where, as a result, all people are suspicious of all others, where populations are no longer human names but mathematical numbers?

There was a time when everybody in Victoria knew everybody else. Even I can remember that time. You recognized every face on the street, even if you didn't know its name. You got used to it. You trusted it. It was a known face, but a blur which passed you and was forever forgotten. And in such a town you could get things done because you could instantly mobilize everybody, and you knew in advance what you could expect from each. Now you have only a list of names and nobody knows what is behind them.

ANTS

IT IS PROBABLE, indeed, that democracy never will survive in big cities; that they will have to be reduced to a compassable size if they are to work. You can run a large city under a totalitarian system. It is ideal for that—an ant's hill where every inhabitant crawls about in his own particular burrow and does his own particular job and asks no question. New York is like that already and there if you see a friend twice a year you are lucky.

Democracy can only function as a belief between men, not as a voice on the radio. It can only be strong when people are neighbors, not fellow travelers on a subway—when you know your friend's character, not merely his telephone number.

Your big cities grow after a while so dropical that they cannot function at all. It takes them more time to get things done than it takes a small city. The larger the city, the slower the pace, and what passes for speed is only fuss and frustration and lost motion. It takes you longer to travel a yard on Granville Street than to travel a block in Courtenay, and even Victoria is slowing up, until you can hardly find a place to park a car. And by the time you get to New York you find that traffic averages a speed of 15 miles an hour north-bound or seven miles east and west. In Courtenay you can travel at 30, within the law, or 40 if the policeman is looking the other way (which he seldom is, by the way).

CHARACTER

IN A TOWN like Courtenay a Victory Loan meeting is called and everybody turns out immediately, the whole population, and the idea behind the loan is explained in a few moments so that everybody understands, and that's that. But in the larger places you must argue and campaign and propagandize for weeks and even then you will find many people with the most incredible ideas about it, for rumor and false notions thrive and flourish in the back streets, dark alleys and curtained haunts of a city where they soon perish in the sunshine of a little town.

In a town like Courtenay also you will find character. It is a rare thing these days and is soon lost in the city. Character is rubbed off in the traffic and men and women are polished smooth and shiny like stones rolled around together in a stream bed. It is very beautiful to look at. The women are smarter, the men better dressed, but they lose their character, their individuality so that when you have talked to one you have talked to all. Whereas in Courtenay you will get a dozen different slants on life if you talk to a dozen persons, and every one will look different.

Yet the poison of size penetrates deeply. Our little towns all over America are trying to ape the city. Instead of feeling superior to it, they feel inferior, and they try to grow more like the city. Every little main street is an imitation of Granville Street, which is an imitation of Broadway, which is an imitation of hell. The people of the little town look to the cities for guidance—the cities, whose civilization has plunged the world into ruin. They listen to city prophets. They will even listen to fellows like me; whereas, if we had any sense in the cities, we would invite the leading prophets of the little towns to come and talk to us and tell us how to live.

We do not because we are still under the illusion that if a man is not as well dressed as we are, or hasn't as big a car, he must be our inferior intellectually. This is simply a hangover from the old vaudeville days when a countryman was always represented as a fool, despite the fact that nearly every great mind in America came out of the country or the small town, and the decline of the small town everywhere, the growth of the big city, coincided with the collapse of civilization. It will never be restored so long as it is concentrated in great festering sores of population.

Parallel Thoughts

FIRST-AT LAST

The British occupation of Syria is the most significant event of the war in one respect. For the first time we have beaten the Germans to the punch. It appears that we have learned at long last that we cannot successfully fight the Nazis while we stick to self-imposed Marquis of Queensberry rules, while they indulge in every known trick, fair or foul, to gain their ends.

In every invasion, from that of Austria to that of Yugoslavia, the Nazis struck first. We were presented with an accomplished fact. Yet in at least half of the countries invaded the whole world had known in advance that the Germans were going to attack—and that it was only a question of when and how they would do so.

AWAITED THE DAGGER

Yet the Allies—now ex-Allies—stuck to obsolete etiquette of so-called international law with the net result that most of them are now working under the lash of Nazi overlords.

France was the most spectacular example. For months the Italian gangster Duce paraded about balconies in Rome roaring to the world that at the chosen moment he was going to plunge Italy into the war on the side of Hitler, and against the democracies. Britain and France then had enough surplus military, naval and air strength to have pulled a gigantic blitzkrieg of their own on Mussolini. As an Irishman might put it—they could have knocked Italy clean out of the war before she had a chance to get into it. They could have unseated Mussolini, initiated a democratic revolution within Italy, and changed the whole tragic history of our times.

But instead of that we politely waited till the stage was all set for Mussolini to do what President Roosevelt described in his famous sentence: "On this day the hand that held the dagger plunged it into the back of its neighbor."

THERE ARE NO RULES

It was all very well to obey

what are called rules of war in the old days when wars were fought by small armies of professional soldiers under strict trades union rules of so-called chivalry. Thus the French could "capture" the Duke of Wellington when he went fox-hunting, entertain him overnight and send him back next morning.

But when war became a totalitarian business, with the gangsters using everything from poison gas to Quislings, not to mention hordes of troops disguised in the uniforms of the country under attack, then the whole picture changed. It was not only foolish to attempt to fight the Nazis under 19th century rules. It was a short-cut to self-destruction.

REALISTIC AT LAST

War itself is a denial that there are any rules. Every nation on the face of the earth, just 13 years ago, signed a solemn pledge never again to resort to war. Yet there are still people in the world who expect the nations first to break that big promise, and then to keep some little rule that in case they do go to war after all, they will only kill their enemies in certain prescribed ways, and not in others.

The utter folly of that view should have been apparent at least since April, 1915, when the Germans first used poison gas. Yet it is not till this year—1941—that we the democracies have got realistic enough to beat the gangsters at their own game. It might be argued that Roosevelt broke "international law" when he seized all Axis and neutral ships in U.S. ports. Churchill probably broke several tuppenny-hapenny statutes when he sent the troops into Syria. But in this war the first law is the law of self-preservation.

If we had fully learned our lesson—which I doubt even yet—we would not wait for Japan to do to us in the Pacific what Italy did to us in the Mediterranean. We would jockey Japan into a position in which, if she were foolish enough to try to fight at all, she would have to do so on battlelines drawn by us, and not her.

Spain, Nazi Spearhead For South America Attack

From Washington Merry-Go-Round

Spain—the mother country of most of South America—is the real spearhead of Nazi attack and influence among our good neighbors.

This was deliberately planned by Hitler as long as six years ago, and the results of this far-sighted policy are now beginning to bear delicious fruit.

The Marquis de Aguilar, agent of Catholic groups in Spain and certainly no Communist, this week gave eloquent testimony of this fact.

Hitler already has 12 divisions in Spain, the marquis said, and has sent four ships loaded with munitions to Nazi sympathizers in Latin America.

General Franco, whom the state department career boys helped install as Spanish dictator, signed a secret agreement with Hitler on October 8, 1938, by which Germany took over Spain.

However, according to the Marquis de Aguilar, Hitler found it more expedient to use Spain as a blind to get everything possible out of the United States. So, for the time being, Fascist Spain was instructed to be neutral.

NOT NEUTRAL

Real fact is that Spain is no more neutral than France. Today Spanish Falangists are operating throughout Latin America, even next door in Cuba. The Falangists have started a tremendous movement to take that island back to the mother country—Spain.

Obviously if Spain did win a foothold in Cuba, the island would become equivalent to Crete, only nearer, in serving as a stepping stone for invasion of the United States.

Meanwhile wealthy Mrs. Alexander Weddell, wife of the U.S. ambassador to Spain, donated an orphanage to the women's auxiliary of the Falangists, arch-enemies of the U.S.A.—a gift which the Madrid press credited to the German ambassador.

PUPPET

This was not half as bad, however, as the short-sightedness of certain state department officials who helped to put a puppet of Hitler's into power in Spain.

For instance, when civil war broke in Spain in 1936, it made no difference to the state department's career clique that General Franco had consulted with Mussolini before he began his revolution.

Joseph C. Green, head of the state department's munitions control board, went ahead and urged United States munitions dealers not to sell arms to the established government of Spain to protect itself against the revolutionary agents of Hitler and Mussolini.

SEEDS

Also, the state department career boys did their best to keep the Spanish ambassador from seeing the President of the United States; so that he was only able to get to the White House through such a roundabout channel as the then Secretary of Agriculture, Henry Wallace.

When he did see the President, Ambassador de los Rios warned him—even as early as 1936—that if the seeds of Fascism were planted in Spain, the mother country, they were sure to sprout in Latin America, a warning which the career boys regretfully remember five years later.

Five Years Since She Had ASTHMA

Here is proof that you can conquer those gasping, wheezing, breath-stopping attacks of asthma. After 7 years of suffering, Mrs. Bernard Marsh, 101 John St. South, Hamilton, Ont., decided to try Templeton's RAZ-MAH. At once she got relief. That was 5 years ago. NEW YORK NOTE

From Walter Winchell

There he was slumbering soundly... The picture he made in an Eighth Avenue subway train (at 4 in the morning) told more about the feeling that exists between the English and most Americans than most speeches and editorials on the same subject... He was a British tar—with an American Legion poppy tucked in the front of his middie.

We Shall Not Falter Or Fail ...
Though all the Powers of Hell on Earth assail ...
Though from once friendly skies swift-winged Death
Spew nameless Horror with each fiery breath ...
Though Blood and Tears be all we have to spend ...
We Shall Go On To The End!

We Shall Not Falter Or Fail ...
Though terror-riven hearts around us quail
As Evil, monstrous, shakes with iron tread
Our ancient Landmarks, shelling Honoured Dead
Whose very dust commands us to defend ...
We Shall Go On To The End!

We Shall Not Falter Or Fail ...
Though, to all eyes but ours, the Holy Grail
Of Freedom be by hopelessness obscured ...
Ours is the Vision—nor may we be lured
From this, our Birthright, easier paths to wend ...
We Shall Go On To The End!

We Shall Not Falter Or Fail ...
Though all our struggles seem without avail ...
Though all our treasure goes to pay the Price,
Leaving but Life itself to sacrifice ...
Though from us all but Faith the foe may rend ...
We Shall Go On To The End!

We Shall Not Falter Or Fail ...
Though hearts heretofore shall ache ... though lips grow pale
That murmured with a twisted smile, "Farewell!" ...
Such hearts shall still hold Freedom's Citadel—
Such lips, grim-set, the Tyrant's Doom portend ...
We Shall Go On To The End!

We Shall Not Falter Or Fail ...
Let those who follow after tell the tale
Of how, for all men's Freedom, free men fought,
Selling their lives and liberties at naught—
Deeming that Freedom all else must transcend ...
We Shall Go On To The End!

CANADA SOLDIERS GROW OWN FOOD

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP) — Officers and men at Canadian corps headquarters, carrying out their own "dig for victory" campaign, have enough vegetables planted in the corps garden to supply their messes for six weeks.

Planned and put into operation by Lord Tweedsmuir when a captain on the corps staff, the garden now is under direction of Capt. Douglas K. Robertson of Calgary, his successor.

"We have to shoot them off like flies," Pte. Harold J. Basso of Greenwich, Conn., said when asked if there was any shortage of gardeners. Pte. Basso said he had seen brigadiers and privates hoeing and weeding together.

IN NEW JOBS

Three Canadian officers from a group of reinforcements for a Saskatchewan infantry regiment who crossed the Atlantic Ocean in a freighter last January have already left the holding unit.

Lieut. Art Wilson of Regina has become transport officer at his regiment; Lieut. Horace Payne of Calgary has been transferred to a 2nd Division reconnaissance battalion and Lieut. Stu Wells of Saskatoon to a post in a detention camp.

GOAT IS MASCOT

Sergt. Gordon Armstrong, Toronto air gunner, and Cpl. Glen Campbell, Calgary fitter—members of the Royal Canadian Air Force army co-operation squadron who rescued at least six persons from the ruins of a bombed building in London—are in the news again.

This time it's purely a squadron affair. With the help of another airman they provided their flight with a mascot—a two-month-old goat christened "Edgebert A.C. 3, Number 22."

The Canadians attended a golf tournament held in aid of the Red Cross Society. Prizes were auctioned and the third prize was the goat. The airman didn't win it but the man who did, after putting up £12, presented it to them as a squadron mascot.

COWARD ENTERTAINS

Noel Coward, British actor and playwright, entertained officers at Canadian corps headquarters for more than two hours during a visit to "A" mess. With Maj. Gen. Pearkes, 1st Division commander, and a number of brigadiers among the 60 officers present, Coward played the piano and sang songs like "Mad Dogs and Englishmen," and "The Statly Homes of England."

Newspaperwomen Halted By Guards

Visiting American newspaperwomen, despite well-powdered noses, failed in an attempt to take Camp Borden. They were defeated and turned back at the entrance by military regulations stating, "No women on week-days."

The newspaperwomen, invited to tour Ontario by the provincial travel bureau, had been greeted at the Canadian border by Premier Hepburn and told to have a good look around. But all they saw at Camp Borden, the Dominion's largest military camp, were grinning guards and amused but keen-eyed military police.

The group drove up to the gates of Camp Borden in a chartered bus, accompanied by an Ontario government representative.

"Halt," said a ruddy-faced guard. The government representative explained the women were due for lunch with officers of the R.C.A.F. The guards shook their heads. They had no instructions to let the party pass.

Long-distance calls were put through to Ottawa, but the responsible officials weren't available.

The commanding officer came along. Maj. Gen. Eric McCuaig was very sorry. The guards were very sorry. Flying Officer Douglas, who came down to meet the party, was very sorry.

And lunch had been all ready, too.

Troops Buy Ropes

English schoolgirls can't buy skipping ropes any more. Soldiers, sailors and girls of the auxiliary territorial force have them all.

Skipping is an important exercise in physical training and nearly all skipping ropes made in Britain are bought up by the forces.

Units Start Camp At Heals Sunday

The 3rd Battalion Canadian Scottish Regiment (R.F.) and No. 114 Reserve Company, Veterans' Guard of Canada, will move into camp at Heals Range on June 15 to stay until June 30.

Col. J. Brooke Stevenson will be officer commanding the camp. Maj. R. H. W. Clowes will be instructor.

On June 16, five units will move into Nanaimo military camp for two weeks. These are the 2nd Battalion, New Westminster Regiment (M.G.); No. 113 Infantry Reserve Company, Veterans

Lieut.-Col. J. Brooke Stevenson—officer commanding Heals Range Camp.

Guard of Canada; 2nd Battalion Irish Fusiliers, V.R.; No. 110 Infantry Reserve Company, Veterans Guard of Canada, and No. 13 Field Ambulance, R.C.A.M.C.

Leaving Nanaimo Camp on June 15 will be the 2nd Battalion Seaforth Highlanders of Canada; No. 112 Infantry Reserve Company, Veterans Guard of Canada; No. 111 Infantry Reserve Company, Veterans Guard of Canada; 2nd Battalion B.C. Regiment, D.C. O.R., and Supply Column, 6th Division, R.C.A.S.C.

Receives V.C.

A native Indian second lieutenant in the Corps of Indian Engineers has become the first member of the Indian army to receive the Victoria Cross in the present war. The King has approved the award to the officer for conspicuous gallantry on active service in the Middle East.

During the pursuit of Italians in Africa last January, the lieutenant was detailed to accompany the leading mobile troops to clear the road and adjacent areas of mines. For four days, over a distance of 55 miles, he detected and supervised the clearing of minefields. Knowing speed was essential, he carried on twice when his carrier was blown up and once when ambushed and under enemy fire.

New Footgear For Soldiers

Canada's soldiers may soon be sporting a new type of footgear, replacing the present boot and ankle combination of the modern battle dress. Tests are being made of "a new boot which has a bellows-type tongue to make it waterproof and laces up the leg to about the same height as the present ankle." Should the new type of boot replace the present type, battle-dress trousers can either be worn tucked inside the strapped top of the boot or outside.

Interior Requests Road Improvements

Roads and highways in the southern and central interior of the province are in excellent condition generally, Hon. C. S. Leary, Minister of Public Works, reported today on his return from a 4,000-mile tour, accompanied by the chief engineer, Arthur Dixon.

"Sections that require some special attention are now being dealt with," Capt. Leary said. "It is the purpose of this department to maintain and improve highways as far as funds are available in order to encourage greater tourist travel, in the belief that highways are the greatest asset in development of the province. The movement of motor vehicles must be expedited, having regard, of course, to speed and safety."

In his study of road and bridge conditions, directional and danger signs, the minister and chief engineer passed through 13 constituencies. At many places they met trade boards and discussed road improvements.

At almost every meeting reconstruction of certain bottleneck sections of road, bridge repairs and replacements, ferry service improvements, with reduction of tolls, were requested.

Canada produced 5,984,370 fine troy ounces of gold during 1939.

Bigger War Bonds Need of Campaign

"We're doing a good job, but we've got to do better—we are pounding the pavements, all right, but we must shoot higher—we are taking too many $50 and $100 orders, where more money is available—we must get more production," Charles Brown told a meeting of Victory Loan canvassers at a dinner meeting at Spencer's last night.

Harry Sparks won the Straith trophy and war savings stamps for a total of $35,400 since the start of the campaign. George Randall, with 24 applications since last Friday, won war stamps and Geoffrey Newstead, with 61 applications since the campaign started, took stamps. Brian Hunning's team won dinner tickets and S. J. D. Clack's division maintained Victory pennant for highest collections to date.

Mr. Clack, boosting sale of war bonds, said people in England were much worse off than people in Canada. In England, he said, a single person earning $900 a year paid $160 in income tax, in Canada $70. And in Canada, he said, people still went to bed and could sleep all night, they had three undisturbed meals a day, lived in comfort. Because of this war had not yet been brought home to many Canadians.

WILL BUY MORE

James D. Munro said canvassers had gone through three-quarters of their cards and had reached only 40 per cent of the objective. Many people had told canvassers, he said, they would be willing to subscribe more if money were needed.

J. E. Fuller told of calling on an 82-year-old woman, living in one room in a rooming house. She had already bought a bond, but was willing to talk about the war and its needs. Then she showed Mr. Fuller a letter she received from Winston Churchill thanking her for a Christmas card she had sent him. The letter was her most valued possession. She said she had $100 in the bank in case of sickness.

"But I think I'll buy another bond with that money," she said. "I'll get along somehow." And she bought the bond, taking her last cent out of the bank to do so. John Barraclough said an elderly man, living alone in one room, had $1,600 in the bank and out of this bought a $450 bond. John V. Johnson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who presided, reminded canvassers the first week of a campaign was generally the easiest.

"From now on it is going to mean real hard work," he said. "I think everybody appreciates the fine work you are all doing and with a little more effort I think we will reach our objective."

Malcolm MacDonald Here Sunday

Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, M.P., British High Commissioner to Canada and a member of Prime Minister Churchill's cabinet, will reach Victoria next Sunday and depart for the east on June 17, Premier Pattullo was advised this morning.

Post-war Problems Theme of Talk

"Democratic Revolution" was the theme of a thought-provoking address by Major J. P. Simon before the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club last evening, in which he envisioned a new world emerging after the war, in which there would be realized the democratic ideal of freedom of speech, thought and action, and freedom from want and fear. Mrs. Kate Farquharson presided at the dinner meeting, held at the Hotel Douglas.

Major Simon described the present world conflict as a war of ideals, and the first war to be fought by the demand of the people almost in opposition to the wish of the controlling classes. He had been in London at the time of the Munich crisis, and he recalled the sudden and sincere change of attitude towards the possibility of war. The second point which the speaker emphasized was the fact that "we are fighting to gain supremacy so that there shall not be the wrong dominant power in Europe."

While confident that military victory would be achieved by Great Britain and her Allies, Major Simon suggested that such a victory was only one step towards the greater victory of the right kind of peace, a peace which would insure a new, vigorous and hopeful democracy for the ultimate good of the average man and woman. He recalled the changes in Canada he had seen since 1906, when hours were long and wages low, and also spoke of post-war sacrifices and adjustments which would be necessary to ensure that everyone would be free from the spectre of want, and in conclusion urged his hearers to make a point of constructive thinking.

In moving the vote of thanks Mrs. H. F. Lord mentioned that the theme of the forthcoming national convention of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs had decided upon postwar peace and the building towards that end as one of the main themes of the convention, and thanked the speaker for the helpful and constructive address.

The annual meeting of the club will be held on June 23. Nominations for officers are to be sent to Mrs. I. M. Abbott by June 14. The sum of $100 has been invested in a Victory Loan bond, through the Bay Wigley Memorial Fund.

Soroptimists Honor American Guest

Mrs. Jean Bennett, Washington, D.C., president of the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs, spent a few hours in Victoria yesterday and was the guest of honor at a luncheon held by the Victoria Soroptimist Club at the Empress Hotel. Mrs. B. M. Clarke, Victoria president, presided, and in compliment to the visitor the table had been arranged with American Pillar roses by Mrs. Fred Robertson.

Mrs. Bennett, who is superintending in Washington, D.C., of a mission for men, succeeding her late husband, John S. Bennett, in this position, which he had held for more than a quarter of a century, and is also superintendent of a children's home, gave a brief talk on her work there and also spoke of her present tour, during which she will visit practically all the major Soroptimist groups of the United States and Canada. The tour began about a month ago with a visit to the Halifax, N.S., club. Since then she has visited clubs in the Deep South and up the Pacific coast of the United States, as well as some of the other eastern Canadian groups. One of the special points which she had tried to impress upon Soroptimists everywhere was the part which women should be playing not only in the immediate emergency of world conditions but in postwar planning and the new order which had to be evolved.

On behalf of the British Columbia Soroptimist regional, representing Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster, Mrs. Clarke presented Mrs. Bennett with a beautiful silver punch ladle, the handle showing the thunderbird design. Two members of the Venture Club also attended the luncheon.

Miss Dora Atkins and Mrs. Robertson supplemented the president's thanks to the visitor.

Bryant, Mrs. F. G. Aldous, Mrs. H. P. Hodges, Mrs. Bruce Cash and Mr. Carl Horthy.

While en route to Victoria by motor, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Eccleston of North Foothills Road, Beverly Hills, California, are in Salt Lake City, Utah, for a few days visiting their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Sweet (Betty Eccleston). The special reason for the visit at this time is that Mrs. Sweet is a member of the 1941 graduating class at the University of Utah, receiving her Bachelor of Science degree (cum laude). Although school days are over for her, Mrs. Lewis will be busy with her work as a provisional member of the Junior League in Salt Lake City.

Members of the personnel of the Pay Corps, with their wives and lady friends, arranged a surprise party at the Empress Hotel supper dance on Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. Charlie Fookes, wife of Sergt.-Major J. E. F. Fookes, who was celebrating her birthday. The large table for twenty guests was arranged with summer flowers and at the place of the guest of honor was a lovely corsage bouquet of orchids, also a hand-somely decorated birthday cake. Others in the party included Sergt. and Mrs. Orville Ruston, Staff-Sergt. and Mrs. A. R. Roberts, Staff-Sergt. C. Metcalfe, Sergt. J. Parker, Sergt. D. McKenzie, Sergt. C. P. Pridham, Sergt. L. Ellis, and the Misses Amy Anderson, Patricia Wilson, Sheila Sangster, Sadie Ryan and Maxine High.

Miss Muriel Creek, who will be married this week, was guest of honor at a surprise miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. L. B. Dunn and Miss Audrey Dunn at their home at 530 Rithet Street Saturday evening. On her arrival the bride-elect was presented with a corsage of scarlet carnations and yellow rosebuds. The many lovely gifts were arranged on a decorated table bearing two heart-shaped flowers in blue and gold with green leaves. Gay Mexican colors of blue, yellow, red, green and orange were used in floral decoration throughout the house. A buffet supper was served, the table being covered with a lace cloth and having a centerpiece of blue, yellow and orange flowers. The evening was spent in playing games, the prize winners being Mrs. G. Adam, Miss E. Hutchings and Miss J. Heaslip. The invited guests were Mesdames L. Gordon, A. Roach, E. Creech, R. Creech, L. Stewart, H. J. Dunn, N. Heaslip, J. Dakers, J. Hawkins, Travers, G. Adam, A. Appleyard, W. A. Roper, R. Rasmussen, F. Chinn, and the Misses I. Dakers, J. Heaslip, F. Dunlop, E. Hutchings and J. Appleyard.

NAVAL WEDDING—Lieut. Wm. Murray Gage, R.C.N.V.R., and his bride, the former Margaret Sheila Murray of Winnipeg, caught by the photographer as they were leaving after their wedding at St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt, on Saturday afternoon.

Saw Cancer of Nazism at Early Stage in Germany

"You women know that when illness hits the family, we can always manage to scrape the money together for a much-needed operation. Well, the time has come for all of us to get together to perform a much-needed operation on a sick world. This cancer of totalitarianism, of brutal aggression, must be cut out if the world of free men and women is to survive. The surgeons are there—in the guise of the splendid young men of our navy, army and air force. It is up to us to supply the instruments and to supply them before it is too late."

This impassioned appeal was made to an audience of women at the Empress Hotel, yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Alice Hemming, who returned to Vancouver after living in Germany and England for the last 10 years. She was speaking on behalf of the Victory Loan campaign, the meeting being sponsored by the Women's Canadian Club. Miss Margaret Clay, national president of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, presided, and Mrs. Alan Campbell explained the purpose of the meeting. Mrs. Campbell also announced that $930 had been subscribed by members towards the proposed gift of a mobile canteen to Britain, leaving only $170 needed, and she appealed to those members who have not yet subscribed to send their donations so that it may be sent off this week. On the platform were also Mrs. Curtis Sampson, representing the L.O.E.; Mrs. A. E. Hopkins, president of the Local Council of Women, and Mrs. Clifford Johns, representing the Women's Institutes.

IN BERLIN IN 1933

Privileged to have a front row seat when the curtain went up in Berlin in 1933 on the first act of Hitler's play for world domination, Mrs. Hemming recalled her first sight of marching brown shirts at the Nazi party's huge demonstration, spoke of the horrors of the "blood purge" which took place, and of the burning of the huge piles of books when "all the progress of culture and civilization as expressed in literature" was consumed in the holocaust in Unter den Linden, as fanatical youths cast their flaming torches into the pile.

She and her husband, Lieut. Col. Hemming, spent a year in Germany, he having been sent there by the British government to investigate the matter of British and United States credits, and during that time she was a member of a group of international journalists who included such famous figures as Dorothy Thompson, Edgar Ansel Mowrer, John Gunther, Douglas Reed and Walter Duranty. They found the Germans to be a combination of sentimentalists and bully, and as such the youth of the country idolized the Fuehrer and, in the Nazi creed of oppression of Jews, Catholics, Poles, Czechs and all the other victims of purge, they found satisfaction for their urge to bully.

BULLIES AND BEASTS

This bullying instinct was reflected in the Nazi method of raiding the homes of their victims in the middle of the night, and Mrs. Hemming recalled an experience when the motor trailer in which she and her husband happened to be staying on the shores of the Baltic was entered by the Gestapo and searched, the occupants being violently roused from sleep. It was at this time that she first saw the inconsistency of Nazi theories, for the nearby youth camp was filled with unmarried couples, encouraged to produce children by the bonus offered by the state to unmarried mothers, although at the same time Rudolf Hess was advancing the plea of lebensraum or more living space for an enlarging population.

The speaker took issue with those who sometimes maintained that Hitler had done some good by providing employment. It was easy to provide employment, she said, when half the workers were thrown into prison or internment camps, while the others were forced to make instruments of destruction. Germany had killed its art and culture, and there was a lost generation, replaced by young brutes who were at their happiest when guarding concentration camps and bullying helpless victims of Nazism. "Spirituality has given way to bestiality, and there is only one cross in Germany today, the crooked cross of the swastika," she claimed.

ENGLAND'S CRUSADE

But in England, where she had been living for some years, Mrs. Hemming found a great spiritual revival. Out of the battered and broken churches the spirit of the people had risen in a great crusade. There was no bitterness, no hatred, no self pity, only a righteous anger, and a new spirit had emerged from "what may be our purge, one of the things to look to with hope for the future and to which the people in the countries of bondage look with tired eyes, in the hope that we are preparing ourselves to take over and heal the wounds of a battered world."

The arrival of the Canadians in Britain came like a fresh breeze into the blacked-out lives of the people, Mrs. Hemming declared. But in this war, for every man in the field 100 were needed in the workshop to ensure that those men received the tools with which to fight. She urged Canadians to buy Victory Loan until it hurts and not to put it off, reminding them that "the road to hell is paved with good intentions and that if Hitler wins because we fail in our responsibility then hell may be realized on this continent as it has been in Nazi-dominated Europe."

Mr. Carl Horthy was the soloist. Accompanied by Miss Helen Ockenden, he sang in imitable style the stirring "Pilgrims' Song" (Tschalkowsky). "No, Never," by Holmes and Sloan, a patriotic song by two Victoria men, which was greeted with much applause, and "The House That Jack Built."

VIGAR—EDWARDS WALKER—EDWARDS

At a pretty ceremony at the home of the bride's parents on Saturday evening, June 7, Beatrice, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards, 1231 Pandora Avenue, was united in marriage to Mr. Richard Vigar, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. A. Murray, 2331 Blanshard Street. Rev. T. G. Griffiths of St. Aidan's Church officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was pretty in a floor-length gown of white marquisette, with three-quarter length veil caught with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of roses and carnations. Her two sisters were attendants, Mrs. Kenneth Walker wearing wild rose pink net over satin, and Miss Kathleen Edwards in turquoise blue net embroidered in silver. They both wore dainty doll hats to match their frocks and carried bouquets of carnations and delphinium. Mr. Chas. Randall supported the groom.

The supper table was arranged with flowers and centred with the four-tiered wedding cake. Mr. and Mrs. Vigar will make their home on Arm Street.

The marriage of Louise, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards, to Mr. Kenneth Walker, which was scheduled for June 6, took place quietly on May 12, owing to the groom being called up for training. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. G. Griffiths at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Walker, "Avondale," Gordon Head.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was charming in a floor-length frock of white georgette, with three-quarter length veil and orange blossoms, carrying a bouquet of roses and carnations. She was attended by Miss Betty Walker, sister of the groom, wearing pink net, and Miss Kay Edwards, sister of the bride, in pale blue net, with little doll hats, both carrying bouquets to match their gowns.

Owing to the illness of the groom's mother, Mrs. C. V. Milton assisted Mrs. Edwards in receiving the guests at the informal reception.

Australia To Get U.S. Tanks

MELBOURNE (AP) — Army Minister Percy Spender announced today that the Australian government has ordered a large number of light cruiser tanks from the United States and he expects delivery to begin shortly.

The minister said arrival of the tanks will strengthen defence and security of the Commonwealth and added that the Australian government is expediting tank production, which has priority in manufacture of war equipment.

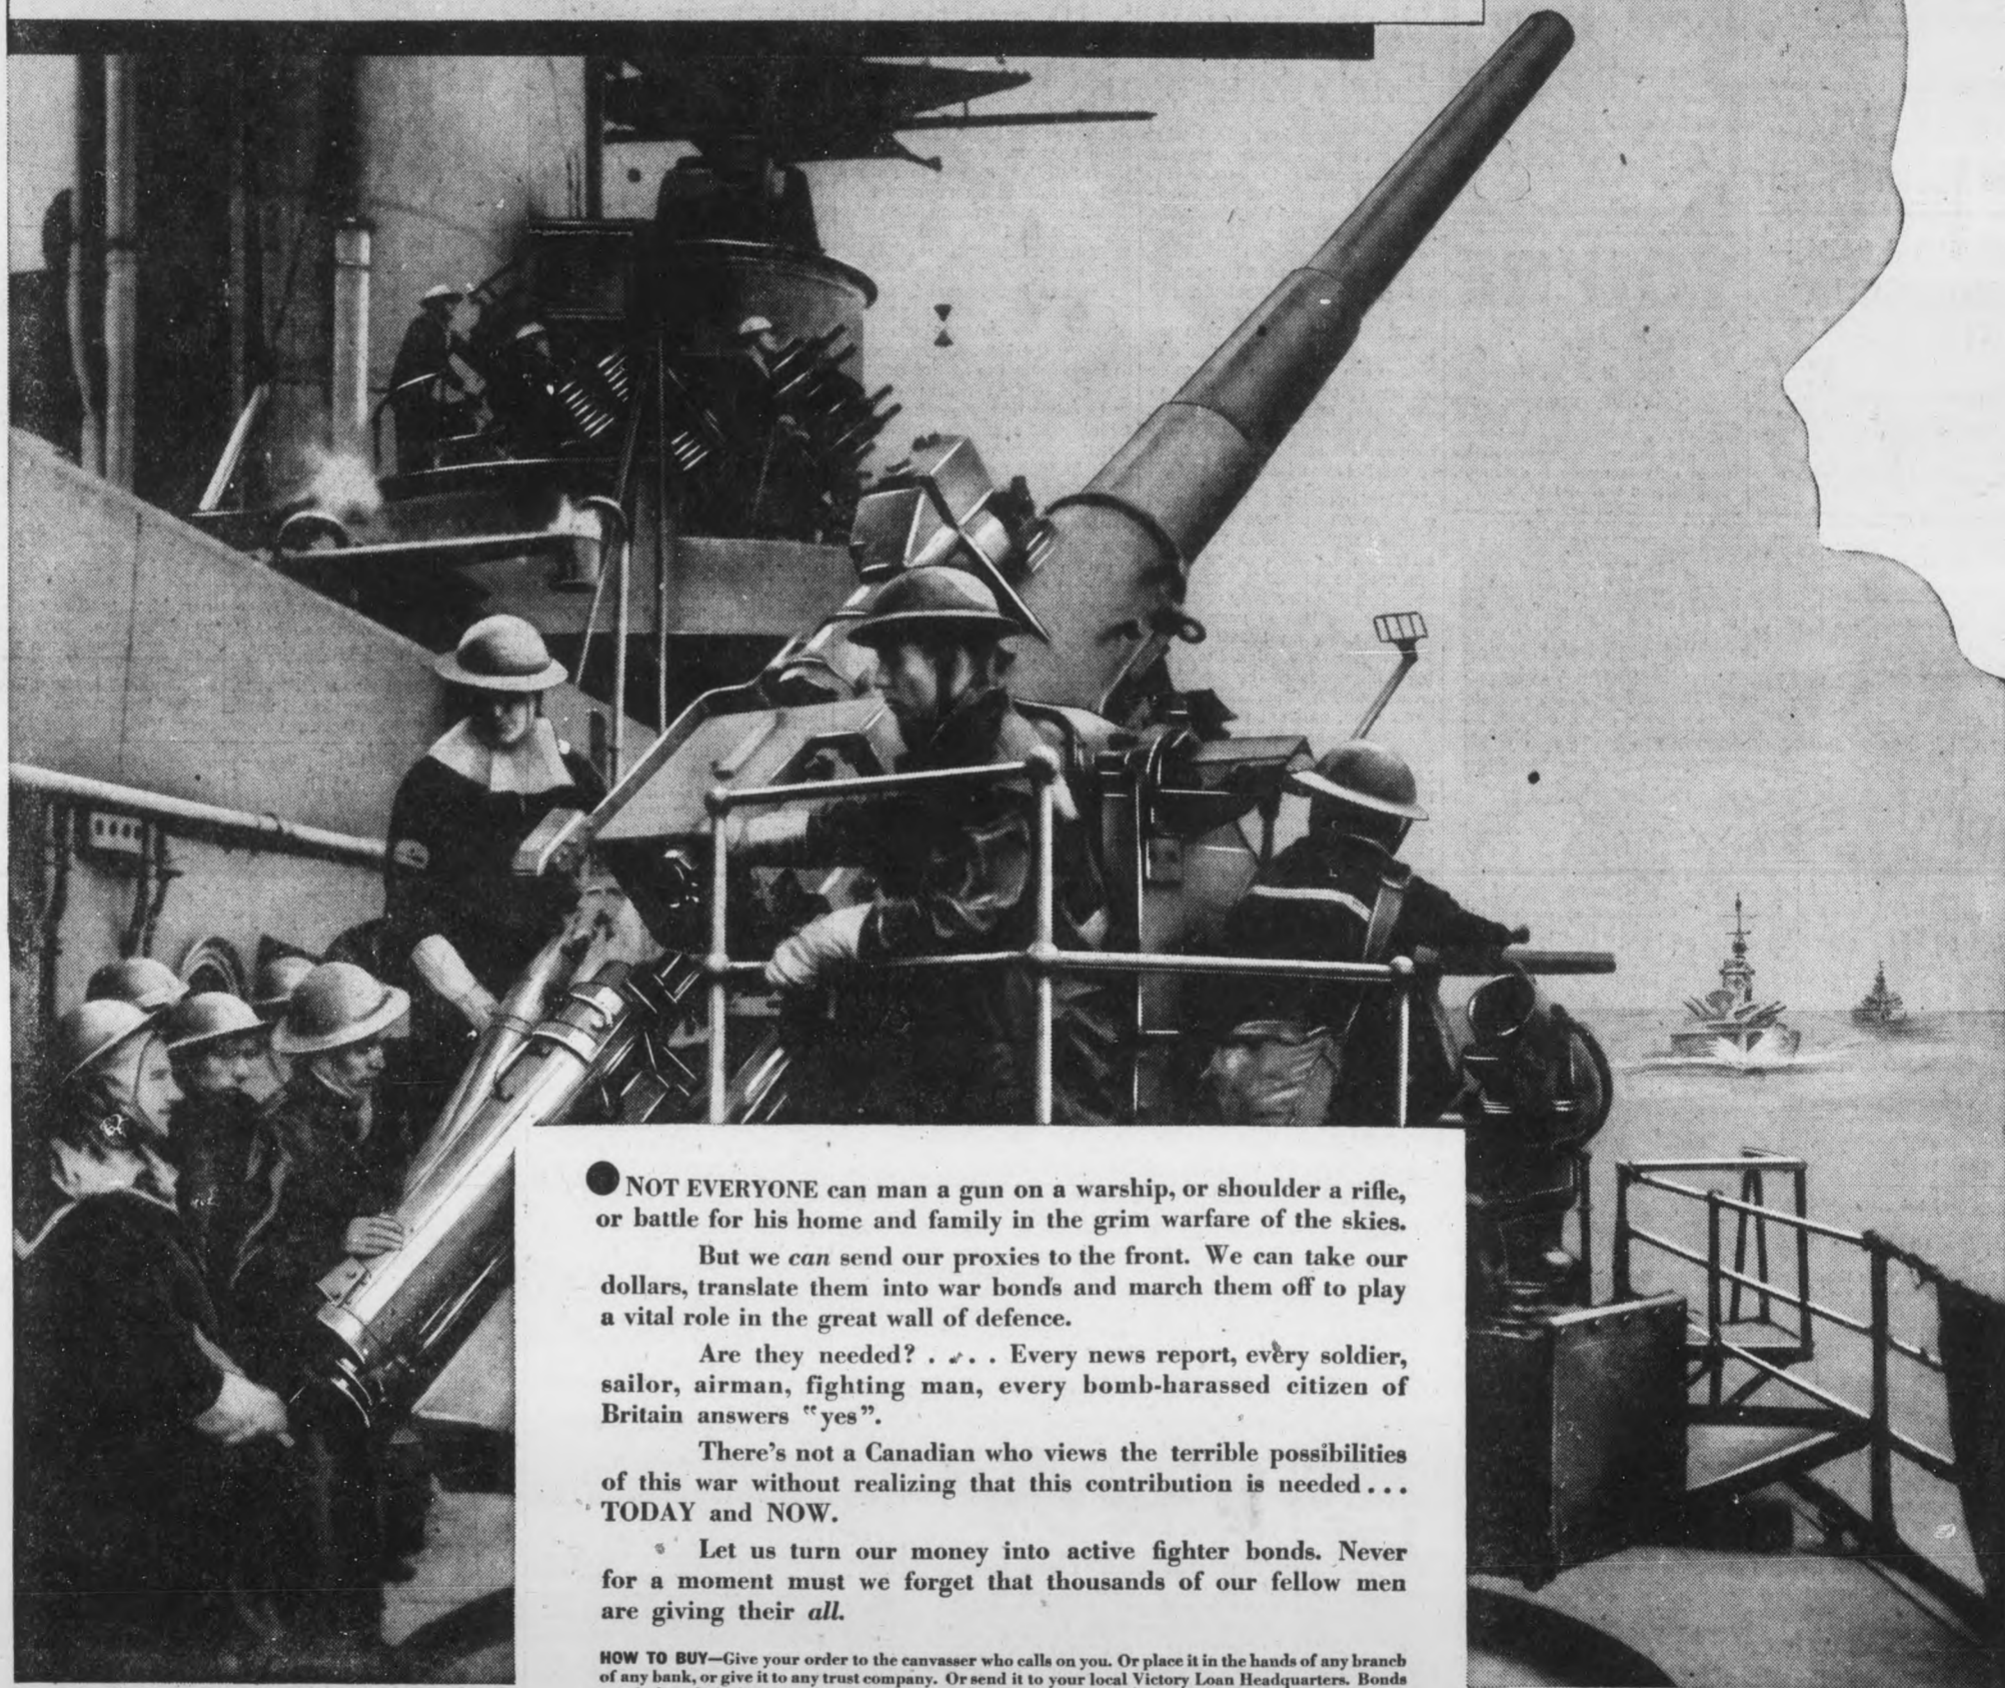

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Buy your share in a Warship TO DEFEND YOUR HOME

● NOT EVERYONE can man a gun on a warship, or shoulder a rifle, or battle for his home and family in the grim warfare of the skies.

But we can send our proxies to the front. We can take our dollars, translate them into war bonds and march them off to play a vital role in the great wall of defence.

Are they needed? . . . Every news report, every soldier, sailor, airman, fighting man, every bomb-harassed citizen of Britain answers "yes".

There's not a Canadian who views the terrible possibilities of this war without realizing that this contribution is needed . . . TODAY and NOW.

Let us turn our money into active fighter bonds. Never for a moment must we forget that thousands of our fellow men are giving their all.

HOW TO BUY—Give your order to the canvasser who calls on you. Or place it in the hands of any branch of any bank, or give it to any trust company. Or send it to your local Victory Loan Headquarters. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and larger. Canvasser, bank, trust company or local Victory Loan Headquarters will be glad to give you every assistance in making out your order form.

Esquimalt Plans Loan Investment

Esquimalt municipality may invest $15,000 in Victory Bonds. The matter was brought up at last night's meeting of the municipal council by R. Harry Pooley, chairman of the Victoria Loan campaign in Esquimalt, and W. Munro, campaign organizer, and after considerable discussion of funds available it was planned to hold a special meeting next Monday to decide how much could be invested.

All municipal employees who have worked 12 months or more will be given a week's leave of absence with pay this summer, it was decided.

Councillor Albert Heald, chairman of public works, reported resurfacing of Esquimalt Road was nearing completion.

Reeve Alex Lockley was re-elected representative of the municipality to the board of directors of the Jubilee Hospital.

The Esquimalt Community Club was granted permission to use the Memorial Park for band concerts once a week during the summer.

The Naval Recreation Club thanked the council by letter for courtesies extended in the operation of the club on Head Street in stating that the present premises were being vacated in preference to a building in the city. The letter was received and filed. Councillor Fred Eaton suggested the club be asked to continue operating in the municipality.

"We will be stuck again with the problem of providing a place of recreation for the boys in uniform who do not like beer," the councillor said. "We've helped the recreation club quite a lot too."

Reeve Lockley said the club had been forced to move because the men in uniform were not patronizing it to any great extent.

A request from a resident of Cave Street that a coat of oil be spread on the gravel road to lay the dust was referred to the chairman and foreman of works.

The B.C. Fire Chief Association's request that the municipal fire department be strongly represented at this year's fire college scheduled for September 22 to 25 was laid on the table for further consideration.

The Department of National Defence will be notified that the municipality wishes to keep the trophy guns loaned to it as they make up part of the war memorial in the Memorial Park. The department asked that any trophy guns not wanted by the municipality be turned over for salvage.

R. W. Mayhew, M.P., advised the council that a by-law could be passed to enforce weights and measures regulations.

Seek Uniform Wood By-laws

A committee of the Saanich Council will confer with Victoria authorities with a view to preparing uniform by-laws to fix measurements of sawdust and wood deliveries, the council decided last night.

A letter from E. O. Way, director of weights and measures at Ottawa, to R. W. Mayhew, M.P., received by the council, stated that cut wood and sawdust were products chiefly used in British Columbia, and that the regulation of such trade was a provincial responsibility, usually delegated to the municipalities. The letter said dealers could be licensed under a municipal by-law defining quantities of wood or sawdust to be sold as units, and that such a by-law could include penalties.

The council approved a motion by John Oliver that a letter be sent to the Victoria Medical Association pointing out that the number of persons on Saanich relief rolls had decreased since negotiations were started two months ago to have members of the association attend Saanich indigents, and that therefore the municipality felt its offer of $185 a month for the doctors' services was ample. It was decided the letter should also point out that doctors were not required to pay a license fee in Saanich.

The council left in the hands of the municipal clerk negotiations for reduction of monthly charges against Saanich in connection with the detention of W. Money and Lillian Cooper at Oakalla. The pair were convicted on charges laid under the Defence of Canada Regulations' Act in Saanich police court, and under the Municipal Act the municipality is responsible for their keep in the penitentiary. It was suggested, however, that Victoria might be liable for part of the monthly charge.

Reason for restriction of the use of water in the part of Saanich lying east of Quadra Street was stated by the council to be a lack of sufficient pressure at the city supply main. No restriction is placed on residents of the area west of Quadra Street, but lawn sprinkling or irrigation is prohibited east of Quadra from 7.30 to 8 a.m., 11 to 2 p.m., and 4 to 7 p.m.

"Residents along Quadra Street wonder why those on the west are permitted to use water at all times while those on the east are restricted," a statement explained. "All that part east of Quadra is fed by a high-pressure system, there being two water mains on Quadra. Drawing water from the west side has no effect on the high-pressure system."

Permits were granted to Bradley and Bradley for the erection of dwellings on Bellevue and Palmer roads.

Reeve W. H. Passmore was re-appointed Saanich representative on the board of directors of the Royal Jubilee Hospital for the year. A letter was received from M. F. Hunter, city clerk of Victoria, thanking Saanich authorities for their co-operation in the recent blackout.

No Fire Ports For U.S. War Goods

LONDON (CP)—Irish sources said today that Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of Eire had refused to permit the United States to use either seaports or airports in Eire as a stepping stone for transportation of war supplies to Britain.

The Prime Minister was said to feel that use of any part of Eire for such purposes would open the country to German air attacks as a legitimate military target.

It was understood, however, that he is agreeable to establishment of a terminus in Eire for trans-Atlantic passenger service.

The United States was said reliably to be speeding arrangements for a direct air link with Britain because of fear that German moves in the western Mediterranean and Atlantic soon might sever the present connection via the Azores and Lisbon.

Negro Shot Dead In Crowded Court

CONROE, Texas (AP)—Bob White, 31, negro, twice convicted of raping a white woman and each time saved from the electric chair by a higher court, was shot dead by the husband of his alleged victim as his third trial opened in a crowded courtroom here yesterday.

Just as the ninth juror had been accepted, W. S. Cochran jumped to his feet, approached to within one pace of the prisoner, drew a .38 calibre pistol and sent a bullet into the negro's head. White slumped in his chair, dead, as terrified spectators threw the courtroom into bedlam.

Strikers Return to Work as U.S. Army Steps In

HOW U.S. TOOK OVER STRIKE-BOUND PLANT—At President Roosevelt's order, the U.S. army took over the struck North American Aviation Company's Inglewood, Cal., plant following tear gas sparring between police and pickets. Above is a general view as soldiers marched in front of plant, bayonets flashing, and crowds of pickets scurried away. Such scenes are all over now. Today the plant neared normal production. (Acme photo.)

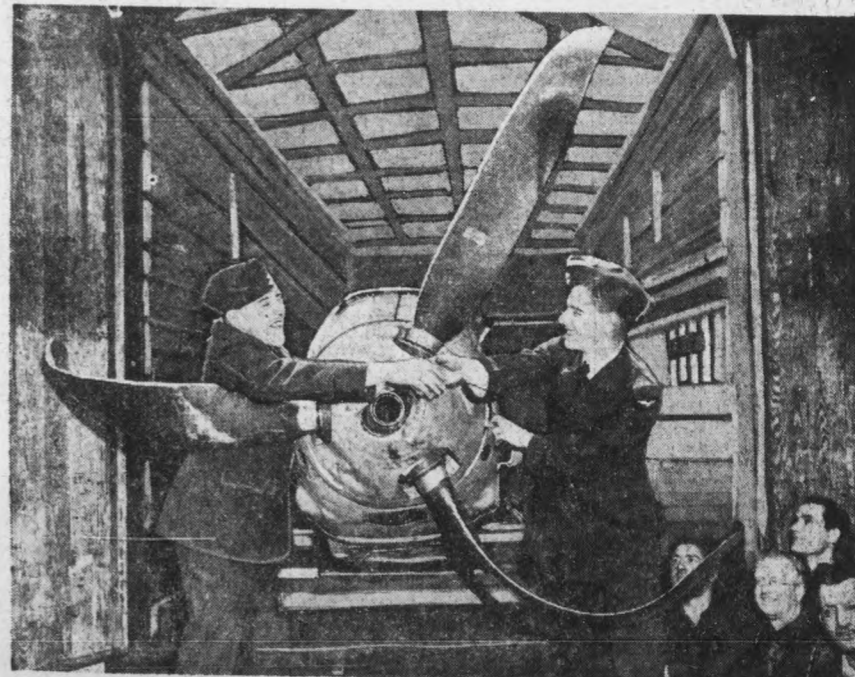

WORLD'S GREATEST ATOM-SMASHER—Rapidly assuming its ultimate form, the world's largest cyclotron is going up on the University of California campus at Berkeley, Cal. The new super cyclotron, 16 times as large as the one now in use, will bombard atoms with 100,000 electronic units. It is expected to open still unexplored atomic continents to scientific exploration. (Acme.)

ARMY FLIERS GO THROUGH PICKET LINES TO DELIVER PLANES—Army air corps men (carrying bags) are shown walking through a picket-guarded gate of the North American Aviation Company plant at Inglewood, Cal., to take delivery on nine combat training planes and a twin-engined bomber completed before the plant was closed by the brief strike of the C.I.O. United Auto Workers which ended yesterday. Today plant operations were nearing normal. The pickets wear white arm bands. (Acme photo.)

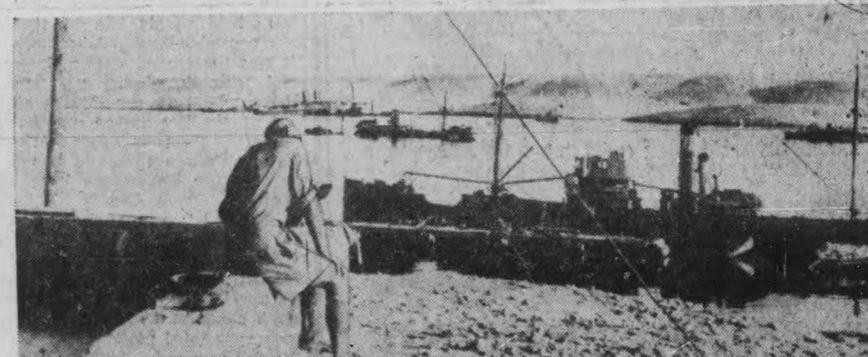

R.A.F. SENDS BATTERED MESSERSCHMITT TO U.S.—Shaking hands in front of the nose of a Messerschmitt 109 combat plane that arrived in New York to be exhibited in aid of "Bundles for Britain," are Winslow Meadows, bombardier gunner and the only U.S. flier in his R.C.A.F. squadron, and Cadet Pilot Walter Wicker of the R.C.A.F. The Messerschmitt was shot down over Britain. Note the cannon in the hub of the nose. The wreckage of many more of these machines is in British scrap yards, waiting to be made into parts of British planes that are carrying the fight to Germany.

MENAUGHTON AND R. B. BOTH AT TEA PARTY IN LONDON—All the Canadian colony turned out for the Empire Day tea dance given by the Canadian Women's Club at a Park Lane Hotel. Lt.-Gen. McNaughton (left) officer commanding the Canadian expeditionary force, snatches time off to drink a cup of tea. Lady Bessborough, president of the club and wife of the former Governor-General of Canada, is his hostess. At (right) Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former Prime Minister, looks on as Mrs. McNaughton pours tea. Women were taking a great part in the Empire's struggle, commented Mr. Bennett.

By PETE SALLAWAY

WITH VICTORIA certain to have an ice arena next winter the hockey fever has already struck certain individuals in this city. A visit to the Willows Horse Show Building would hardly raise the enthusiasm of anybody who may have plans for a lot of enjoyable skating sessions this fall. The building looks just the same as it always has. Nothing has been done to change the atmosphere of the structure which has always been—horse. But, the hockey bug has bitten nevertheless.

Barney Olson, the man of the hour as far as the hockey people are concerned, immediately he announced plans to take over the building and install an ice plant, was interviewed by several interests with regard to amateur hockey next winter. Chatted to Eddie Kelpin yesterday. Reminded he was the coach of the Victoria Duroid Raiders last season. This was the club that gained fame all over Canada through its travelling thousands of miles to practice and play games. It was the hockey team without a rink. Kelpin is quite enthused over prospects for the coming season and we understand the Duroid people will be interviewed regarding just where they stand on the backing of an amateur club here this winter.

It appears there will be little difficulty securing a backer for such a club. Main thing is the officials of the team, who did the pioneer work last season, are determined nobody else is going to step in and grab off the glory now that Victoria is going to have a rink. They feel they did all the hard work and should share in the glory, if there is any, next winter.

Officials of the local club are toying with the idea of importing players. Good junior and intermediate puckchasers are just about a dime a dozen on the prairies and they feel with a new arena and virgin hockey territory to open up, their problem of securing first-class players would not be a difficult one. If players are to be brought in they want to get busy scouting right away.

Then the possibility of Victoria having a professional team in the Coast League must not be passed up. We feel certain the directors of the coast circuit would like nothing better than to place a club in this city. Last year's line-up of Vancouver, Seattle, Portland and Spokane was certainly not a success, as evidenced by the fiasco at the close of the season when the Spokane players refused to return to their home ice for the playoffs. We understand Bobby Rowe would like nothing better than to get out of Portland.

Should Victoria get a coast loop franchise it is quite possible Nanaimo could be attracted into the circuit. Plans were made last season to take in Nanaimo but it was decided the up-island town could not support a pro club. But that would be all changed with Victoria in the circuit. It would mean a club could play here one night and in Nanaimo the next with only a few miles of travelling by car.

It looks like Victoria may hold the secret to the future of pro hockey on the coast next season. It is a known fact the Coast League experienced anything but a good season last year and would like to change its make-up. President Fred (Cyclone) Taylor and his directors will realize that Victoria is ripe for hockey and we cannot imagine their passing up such an opportunity to place a team in this city.

Peter Reiser chased Dixie Walker out of centre field in Brooklyn Dodgers line-up, but veteran made place for himself in right and gives recruit pointers.

One-hit Rampage

Warneke Gets One

If the fans at Philadelphia don't get a no-hit ball game there this season they are going to be greatly disappointed. Various National League pitchers have provided four one-hitters at Shibe Park already and three of them have been crowded into the last eight days.

Hank Gornicki, St. Louis Cardinals' rookie who since has returned to the minors, held the Phillies to a lone safety on May 3. Tommy Hughes of the Phils duplicated the trick against Chicago Cubs June 3. Three nights later Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati Reds pitched what some of his teammates call his third no-hitter, giving the Phils only one very scratchy single off shortstop Eddie Joost's glove.

Yesterday Lon Warneke, the lean veteran of the Cardinals, joined the society with a 3 to 0 shutout of the Phils in which the only blow was a line single by Emmett Mueller.

Bob Feller achieved his 13th victory of the season and eighth straight by holding Washington Senators to four hits while Cleveland Indians slapped out a 4 to 1 decision. It was the 14th loss in 17 games for the hapless Senators.

Steve Peek, rookie knuckleballer of New York Yankees, had a one-hitter going into the ninth inning against Chicago White Sox. He weakened to allow five singles and three runs in that final frame, but the Yankees won 8 to 3 and took over second place in the American League. John Rigney pitched scoreless ball for five innings, but in the sixth Frank Crosetti homered with the bases loaded and the Yankees battered around for five runs while in the seventh they got three more, two on a home run by Charley Keller.

STRIKEOUT SHOW
Tommy Bridges, the little veteran of Detroit Tigers, put on a strikeout show against Philadelphia Athletics, fanning 14, but tired and had to be rescued by Al Benton as Detroit won 4 to 3. Benton worked the last 1-3 innings and received credit for the triumph.

A night game between Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns was postponed.

Brooklyn Dodgers cut short their slump with a 4 to 3 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates, who were held to six hits by their old nemesis, Fred Fitzsimmons. It was the second start and second triumph of the year for Fritz, who beat the Pirates six out of six last season and five out of six the year before. Arky Vaughan hit a three-run homer to save the Buccaneers from a shutout. Dolph Camilli hit his 13th round tripper of the season for the Dodgers.

Johnny Vander Meer scattered nine hits as Cincinnati Reds beat Boston Braves 4 to 3 for their ninth conquest in 11 games and took over third place in the National League.

Vern Olsen pitched Chicago Cubs to an 11 to 0 shutout over New York Giants on seven well-spaced hits. Hank Leiber homered

Bays Defeat Army in Slashing Boxla Clash

Eagles Oppose Pitzer and Nex

Out to close the gap between themselves and the league-leading Chemalmus crew in the senior ball circuit, the second-place Eagles engage Pitzer and Nex tonight at the Athletic Park, starting at 6.

Eagles hold down the runner-up spot two games behind the up-Islanders. Stan Davies is expected to pitch for the lodgement tonight, with Ray Maitland or Lorne Murray to get the job for Pitzer and Nex.

In their last appearance Pitzer and Nex suffered a double defeat at the hands of Chemalmus, Saturday.

Second division games last night saw the Eagles defeat the Navy 8 to 1 and the Tillikum Cubs plaster Pitzer and Nex 22 to 2.

RICHMOND AFTER LACROSSE RECORD

VANCOUVER (CP) — Richmond Farmers, unbeaten so far this season, are on their way to set a new Inter-city Box Lacrosse League record. They chalked up their eighth straight victory here last night when they downed New Westminster Salmonbellies by a 16 to 11 score.

Farmers now hold a 10-point lead in league standings over Vancouver Burrards and New Westminster Adanacs, who share second place. Salmonbellies and North Shore Indians possess an equal portion of the cellar.

MR. INGLIS OBJECTS

To the Sports Editor:—Allow me to express my views on an inexperienced sports reporter. On several occasions sport in Victoria has received a black eye through notes and comments of a reporter, like the one that appeared in the Times on June 9. I'm referring to the boxing show on June 6.

When two judges and the referee decide alike that should be enough for any reporter. I have been in the boxing game now since 1898, winning several championships including the North of England championship and the Manitoba championship, and have been teaching steady for 30 years.

I have watched Vic Murdoch and Jack Turner fight on four occasions and I should know how to reach a verdict. Hoping the next time the Times reporter goes to a boxing match he will pay a little more attention to the officials, and he will probably learn a little.

WILLIAM INGLIS.

Manchukuo produces approximately 170,269,000 bushels of soybeans annually.

Bolivia is the only South American country having no navigable waterway to the ocean.

Louis the Dandy

If Joe Louis were badly marked up in joust with Buddy Baer in Washington, it isn't evident as champion checks in at Greenwood Lake, N.Y., to start training for defence of title against Billy Conn at New York, June 18.

Fans Watch Roughest Of Season

Sixty minutes of wham and slam, a solid hour of the roughest boxla yet witnessed in this sedate city, marked the second meeting of the James Bay and Army teams last night as the former aggregation bumped merrily along to a 16 to 9 victory.

Boarding, charging, slashing, high sticking and all the other insidious tortures that oftentimes accompany this strenuous recreation were rife. And sweltering is a good word with which to describe conditions at the Sports Centre last night. It was hot inside the building, but it failed to slow down the game.

The session started in good order with the score 5 to 2 for the Bays at the end of the first quarter of floor pounding. Menzies' lads blocked well, letting their forwards get into the clear before they had to shoot. Minns scored both the Army goals on quick shots at which goalie Art McKim could only blink. In the last few minutes things got very bouncy, both teams showing complete willingness to indulge in some vicious bumping.

SCORING LAGS

The second canto of this miniature war saw very little scoring, Ed McKim swishing two shots behind Army goalie Watson, and Johnny Minns driving one past McKim. However, things stepped up along the boards and, more than one player almost found an exit through the plankings. A few minutes from half-time, Tom Carney, one of the military's largest siege guns, breezed into the player's box, scanned the mien of his aides and spoke as follows: "Let's face the facts, boys. We can only beat 'em by bumping 'em—and I'll personally take on three if necessary."

With this he poured some water on the head of team-mate Styles, thoroughly massaging his companion's cranium spinach, little realizing his words were to preface a third period of the roughest, toughest boxla witnessed here.

It opened in a total war split and it ended in the same fashion. The boys got so excited they at times threw flying blocks and turned the area of the side timbers into a veritable no-man's land. The men of the land service seemed to get the better part of this exchange of blows and outscored the Bays 5 to 4, the only period in which they accomplished this feat.

The last canto was much quieter. The heat and bruising play of the preceding periods slowed things considerably, all this to the advantage of Menzies' lads. They again adopted the tactics of the opening period and outscored the army 5 to 1.

HIGH SCORERS

Big man for the Bays on the score sheet was a big man. It was Ed McKim, who slammed five fast ones by goalie Watson, who, incidentally, gave a fast demonstration of hopscotch to stop 37 shots, eight more than McKim in the other goal. Johnny Minns slipped six of the slickest into the Bay nets to lead the military parade and to emerge highest scorer of the evening.

In the preliminary McLean's Bakery passed by Douglas Tire to the tune of 17 to 8. The tire shop boys made a real fight of the affair for the first three quarters but wilted in the final 15 minutes. Brynjolfsson and Levy refereed.

Cameron's Beat Dockyard 8 to 7

In B division softball league play last evening, Cameron Lumber Company, batting in all of its runs in the first two innings, scored an 8 to 7 victory over H.M.C. Dockyard.

The lumber boys scored four runs in the first frame and four more in the second. The opposition wallopped out two runs in the first inning, one in the second, two in the fourth, one in the fifth and one in the sixth.

Zapoling worked on the mound for Camerons and Wiggins for H.M.C. Dockyard.

In an interservice league game played last evening Army Pay Corps beat 17th Searchlight Battery 11 to 6.

In another exhibition game, the Longshoremen-Causeway, lone senior A team, handed V.M.D. B division team a 17 to 1 beating. Only a scattering of fans were on hand to witness the one-sided struggle in which Ralph Bonner pitched for Longshoremen and Brown, Maslanka and Adams worked for V.M.D.

Queen's Fund Director Here

Sholto Watt, native son of Victoria and former newspaperman on Fleet Street, arrived in the city today in connection with his duties as executive director of the Queen's Canadian Fund for air raid victims.

"The fund has started off very well and will continue so, from all indications," Mr. Watt said. "Already Canadians have given $325,000."

Since he was in Victoria a year ago when he addressed Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs Mr. Watt has been in England. He crossed the Atlantic on one of the U.S. destroyers, turned over to Britain, and wrote of his experiences for Chicago Daily News and his old Fleet Street paper, London Daily Telegraph.

"I had a month in London," he said today, "and so experienced some of the air raids which were heavy at the time. They are really not as bad as I had imagined. It is probably the people's spirit that makes them seem less than they really are."

Working with Mr. Watt on the Queen's Canadian Fund is J. G. McConnell, president of the Montreal Standard and son of J. W. McConnell, publisher of the Montreal Star, who has given hundreds of thousands of dollars to buy airplanes for the Royal Air Force and is now chairman of the "Wings for Britain" fund. Mr. Watt is a son of the late Dr. Alfred Watt and Mrs. Watt, who is now in Ottawa. He was born here when his father was chief medical officer at William Head quarantine station. He attended St. Michael's School before going to England.

Yesterday he spoke to the Vancouver Rotary Club on the aims of the Queen's Fund, of which Queen Elizabeth is patroness, and tomorrow will address the Victoria Rotary Club.

Hottest Day Yet

Old Man Sun burst merrily forth today to flood Victoria with the hottest rays yet given off this year. At the meteorological observatory on Gonzales Hill at 1.30 this afternoon, the mercury had risen to 81 degrees, and showed a willingness to climb further.

Although things seemed in a broiling condition, this mark of 81 did not set a record for a June day. On June 25, 1925, a temperature of 95 degrees was recorded, one of the hottest days in the history of the city.

Several tongues are spoken in Ethiopia.

TOWN TOPICS

The A.R.P. monthly meeting of District 5C, Saanich, will be held in Tillicum School, June 19, at 8.

A motorist was fined $10 in City Police Court today when he pleaded guilty to exceeding the 30 miles an hour speed limit, and five were each fined $2.50 on parking charges.

Rev. Morley R. Hall, president of the Western Baptist Bible College, Calgary, will speak at Central Baptist Church on Friday at 8, under the auspices of the Young People's Society. Mr. Hall will also speak at the regular prayer of the church on Thursday at 8.

Annual picnic and sports of the Victoria Unit, Army and Navy Veterans, will be held Saturday at Deep Cove. Buses will leave the club premises from 10 a.m. to 10.30 a.m. Tickets may be obtained from the secretary's office on Saturday morning. Victoria Boys' Band will be in attendance.

The city fire department extinguished a fire in the lumber yard of the McCarter Shingle Co. Ltd. at 5.55 last evening. Damage was slight. At 5.05 last evening the department answered a call to a grass fire in the 1,100 block on Dallas Road. Saanich firemen extinguished a grass fire at 3060 Albina Street at 1.42 yesterday afternoon.

Members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church choir held a successful strawberry social in the lecture room, when about 150 guests were welcomed. Mrs. J. L. W. McLean and Mrs. W. L. Clay presided at the tea table, which was centred with a silver basket of delphiniums and pink snapdragons, flanked by matching tapers in silver holders. A splendid program of music was arranged by C. C. Warren, consisting of orchestral numbers by Mrs. Thornborrow, and J. Mossop, J. G. Simpson, Allan Anderson and C. C. Warren; vocal numbers by Mr. and Mrs. L. Batchelor, H. Husband, A. Palmer and A. W. Trevett.

BUILD NEW STORE AND WAREHOUSE

A permit for a $9,747 warehouse and store for Whitaker, Revercomb, Ltd., at 840 View Street, was issued by the city building inspector's department late yesterday.

The project was the largest of several undertakings listed yesterday afternoon and this morning in the city. Also recorded were a $2,300 four-room home for T. Timmins at 437 Heather Street, $500 typewriter salesroom, and repair office for Vancouver Island Coach Lines, Ltd., 619 Broughton Street, $1,350 conversion job which will change 38 South Turner Street from single family home into three-suite apartment, and $650 undertaking for Mrs. J. K. Snape at 417 Queen Ann Heights, where the second story is being completed.

STILL EXCLUDED FROM MINISTRY

TORONTO (CP)—The Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada today decided "against restoration" to the ministry of Rev. J. Robertson Orr of Victoria.

Rev. William Barclay of Hamilton reviewed the history of the case, and said evidence had been heard by a commission of the assembly and that it had been reopened from time to time. (Mr. Orr's exclusion from the ministry was first ordered because of an action in the courts. His case has been before the assembly several times and his deposition from the ministry, imposed in 1928 was lifted in 1939, but his suspension was allowed to stand for another two years.)

Rev. James Hyde of Victoria said he did not think the case should be closed forever. "We as an assembly can't make it final, but we don't want this case continually brought back for reopening year after year," Dr. Barclay said.

"Don't say that the door of this church is forever closed to him," said Mr. Hyde.

Y.P.S. NEWS

Going Up Slowly, But Surely

Victory Loan in Victoria Reaches $3,172,000 Total

Greater Victoria today climbed slowly but steadily towards its $5,400,000 objective in the $600,000,000 Victory Loan.

At noon $3,172,000 had been reported, divided as follows: Oak Bay, $644,300; Victoria City, $1,520,000; Saanich and Gulf Islands, $490,000; Duncan, $352,850; Esquimalt, $164,000.

Yesterday across the country, Canadians subscribed $30,500,000, bringing the total to $340,397,400. British Columbians have invested $35,369,650 of their $60,000,000 quota.

From now until the books are scheduled to close June 21, it will take daily subscriptions of $33,000 to put the loan over the top. Yesterday was the first day since books opened June 2 that the necessary daily average was not achieved.

"There seems to be a general impression abroad this loan is already a complete success, but this is not the case," said George W. Spinney, chairman of the national executive, Ottawa.

ALL MUST BUY

"The public is impressed with the efficiency and thoroughness of our organization, but no matter how perfect and efficient, unless every Canadian realizes every dollar counts and acts immediately the loan cannot be a complete success. It will not be a success until the objective is substantially passed, and then it will be a success only if every man, woman and child in this country able to buy a bond has bought one."

"There must be no complacency about this loan—$600,000,000 is a great sum of money and it takes a lot of work and a great army of subscribers to get it."

In the two previous loans of this sort, 328,980 individuals subscribed. So far in this loan there have been 336,253 subscribers.

British Columbia's largest subscription today was $2,000,000, received from American Can Company of Vancouver. Other big B.C. subscribers were Nelson Spencer Limited and staff, $60,000; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Mackin, $25,000, and J. Fyfe-Smith Company, $25,000.

Oak Bay, with 77 per cent of its quota, is setting the pace for all other units in the Victoria division, and is confident the $800,000 goal will be reached before the week is out, which means the honor pennant will fly from the Municipal Hall.

Duncan is second with 60 per cent and Victoria City in third place with 55 per cent. Esquimalt and Saanich units are 52 and 47 per cent respectively.

Vancouver has subscribed $5,814,700, only a little more than a third of their $15,000,000 quota.

Provincial officials said most large subscriptions from special names list are now in and the duty is falling almost entirely on the general public to complete the objective.

Biggest subscription in Canada today was for $6,000,000 by Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company.

There were also orders for $1,000,000 each from Northern Electric Company of Montreal, and Coca Cola Company, Toronto. Nova Scotia province placed an $800,000 order and Monarch Life Assurance Company of Winnipeg bought a $700,000 bond. There were three $500,000 subscriptions—from City of London, Ont., Northern Life Assurance Co., London, Ont., and Workmen's Compensation Board of Ontario.

The little settlement of Bella Bella, with a population of 100, reported it had raised $20,950, double its quota of $10,600 and had a new objective of $25,000. In Vancouver Fred MacMurray, Hollywood film star, bought a bond.

"I'll be mighty glad to," MacMurray said, when approached by a canvasser. "We certainly want to see Britain get all those tools she needs."

to the United States might well be relaxed, Mr. Macdonald said. He felt that Canada could profitably follow the example of the United States in displaying flags of the two countries wherever possible.

Plastics will replace steel in the manufacture of many goods because of the exigencies of war, according to George E. Macdonald of Macdonald Electric Ltd., who has just returned to Victoria after a business trip which took him to Toronto, Montreal, Detroit and other industrial cities.

Mr. Macdonald, who spent two months in eastern Canada and the United States, said that manufacturers of electrical goods and furniture are discouraging the export of these goods.

Victor Little was fined $50 by Magistrate Henry C. Hall in City Police Court today when he pleaded guilty to operating a slot machine at the Kit Kat coffee and sandwich shop, 818 Douglas Street.

The charge arose from evidence given in court last week by John B. Watson, proprietor of the cafe, who said that Little received half of the money taken from three slot machines he had on the premises.

Watson was fined $50 at that time for operating the machine on his premises, and the machine taken by police when the charge was laid was ordered to be destroyed and all money confiscated to the Crown.

In fining Little, Magistrate Hall told him if he ever appeared in court again on the same charge, the penalty would be much greater.

OTHERS FINED

Four other $50 fines were imposed this morning on men who pleaded guilty to operating machines. The cases were on remand from last week. In all four cases the machines were ordered to be destroyed and money confiscated.

Those fined were: Richard Emerson, Jones' Brothers news stand, Yates Street; Roy Copas, Two-Jacks, Government Street; Quong Wing, Mandarin Chop Suey, 602 Fisgard Street, and George Stevens, Golden Lunch, Broad Street.

Resume Court Fight on Suite

Sidney Coxworth, landlord who paid a $500 judgment and costs to three young women tenants for illegal trespass and wrongful removal of furniture from their 1221 Rockland Avenue suite, today sued the same three for rent amounting to $87.50 for the period from January 15 to April 1 this year.

The action opened before Judge J. N. Ellis in County Court and was adjourned to permit H. W. Davey, counsel for Mr. Coxworth, and C. L. Harrison, representing the defendants, to submit written argument.

The three defendants, Mrs. Evelyn McLeod, Miss Olive Ashton and Miss Marguerite Witton, won their original action in April, after camping in the suite following a short interruption while they borrowed cots and beds to replace furniture removed by the landlord.

Mrs. Harriet Edith Evans, caretaker of the apartment house, stated the three young women had occupied the suite from April 1940 until June 1 this year, with the week's interruption while they secured beds. The rent of $35 a month had been paid half monthly in advance with the last payment being made January 1 of this year. On January 15 they had again tendered rent and it had been refused by Mr. Coxworth who had removed the goods three days later. Payment had been resumed immediately after the young women won their judgment in the earlier trial, she said.

WANTED TENANTS OUT

Mr. Coxworth stated the tenants had paid rent for April and May but not from January 15 to April 1. He said he had endeavored to raise the rent and had taken other action to try to get the tenants out.

In reply to Mr. Harrison's questioning, he admitted in his earlier action he had sought a set-off for rent for January 15 to April 1 period in a counterclaim.

He admitted also attempting to make the suite untenable by removal of furniture and turning off hot water and light. Mr. Coxworth also stated he had rejected an offer of $25 rent for the period in question when it had been submitted to him on behalf of the girls.

He had not, he said, attempted to fix a hot water tap in a bathroom sink when it failed to yield hot water after the girls had had that service renewed on February 14.

Miss Ashton stated she and her friends had "secured outside assistance to have the water turned on about February 14. It had been cut off on January 18, she said. She testified the bath and one basin was supplied, but that another was not.

Miss Witton testified she had asked to have the tap repaired and added she and her room mates had regained electricity through their own approach to the utility company.

Mr. Harrison withdrew an early motion for dismissal on the grounds of non suit to put his witnesses on the stand and the case was adjourned for written argument.

Soldier Let Off

Irvine Grant Empey, a soldier, was given suspended sentence by Magistrate Henry C. Hall in City Police Court today when he appeared on remand from yesterday after being found guilty of stealing a car owned by William Davies, Burnside Road, last Saturday night.

Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison said consent of the Attorney-General had been granted that suspended sentence be given the young soldier.

Matthew Thompson, a civilian, found guilty with Empey on the car stealing charge, was remanded until Saturday for sentence.

On consent of the Attorney-General, Thompson will be given suspended sentence also provided he joins the Canadian active army between now and Saturday as he said he wished to do in court yesterday.

The 56th Battery, 5th B.C. Coast Brigade (R.F.) will assemble at 7.15 tomorrow evening for retreat parade.

Build Ships in Natural Docks

By JACK PILLSBURY

SOUTH PORTLAND, Maine (CP)—The daydreams that William S. Newell had 20-odd years ago mean today that Britain will have in record time 30 brand new 10,000-ton freighters to add to the Atlantic line of communications.

The vessels needed so acutely in the "Battle of the Atlantic" will soon be assembled in a novel shipyard now taking form on the edge of this cape across from the shipping centre of Portland.

Workmen are just scooping out dirt to make a big hole and are erecting concrete walls and floors, so they can build seven ships at a time in three big new drydocks. When the ships are ready to float they will simply open the gates at high tide and push the boats out. When the water ebbs out at low tide, the gates will be closed and more keels will be laid.

Archibald M. Main, vice-president of the Bath concern, explains the big point about the South Portland location.

"There's a rock shelf about 30 feet beneath the earth's surface," he says. "We are scooping out down to this bedrock. The concrete will form three big drydocks. In one of these we can build three ships at a time, and two ships at a time in each of the other two drydocks. Cranes can lower material to men in the docks, and they will be protected from the weather and wind."

"When the ship is ready for launching, we will simply open a gate and let the 17-foot tide do the job for us. It eliminates all the cost and difficulty of launching, and the fact we are near the deep channel means that the only limit to the size of the ships we can build is the size of our docks, and they will be quite large."

Rupert Taking 200 On Summer Cruise

Besides the sailings as far as Skagway, the regular summer service to British Columbia ports, including cruises on the scenic Portland Canal, will be featured again this year.

Singapore Ready As Home for U.S. Fleet

SINGAPORE (AP)—New construction has made the Singapore naval base "ready to cope with any fleet likely to require its hospitality and assistance," Vice-Admiral Sir Geoffrey Layton, British naval commander-in-chief for the Far East, said in a broadcast last night.

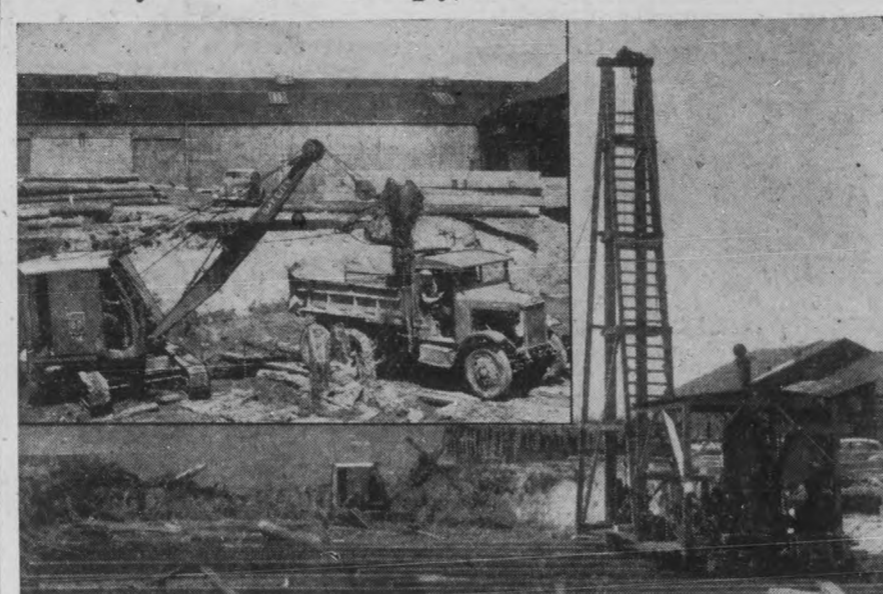

Admiral Layton said that although the base already had been prepared to provide all facilities, changing war conditions and also "the possibility of its use by an allied fleet as well as our own," had prompted expansion work of "large dimensions." He said United States as well as Empire materials had been used in the new construction.

Activity at New Shipyard Site

Tons of earth have been scooped out and thousands of piles driven to make way for the shipbuilding plant of the Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd. on the Dallas Road waterfront where 10 steel ships of 9,300-tons will be built for the Dominion government at a total cost of $18,000,000. The composite picture above shows a pilerdriver at work on No. 1 berth and power shovel excavating. Dependent on steel delivery, the first of the keels will be laid early next month.

Uncle Sam Launches Mighty Battleship

Four months ahead of schedule, the new U.S.S. South Dakota hits the water at Camden, N.J., newest addition to Uncle Sam's two-ocean navy. Note ways smoking from friction. The South Dakota is 35,000-ton sister-ship of the U.S.S. Washington and the U.S.S. North Carolina.

Saved By Bulkhead

OTTAWA (CP)—A thin bulkhead saved the lives of half the crew of a British freighter torpedoed recently in mid-Atlantic.

Forty-seven of her crew are safe in Canada, including the only Canadian aboard, Frank Walsh, formerly of Saint John, N.B. Two were killed when the explosion shook the ship and two others died of their injuries, one aboard the rescue vessel at sea and the other in a Canadian hospital. Seven others are receiving hospital treatment, but their injuries are not believed serious.

The craft was bound for a North American port to pick up a cargo when attacked. The survivors spent 21 hours in open boats before they were rescued.

The men said the torpedo struck in an after-hold just forward of the sleeping quarters of the engine-room crew, deckhands and gunners. A few feet nearer the stern and half the crew probably would have been lost, they said.

U.S. Takes Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States maritime commission has directed the Southern Pacific Company to deliver its entire fleet of 110 cargo vessels "for national defence purposes."

The vessels, the commission said today in announcing the order, are being acquired pursuant to President Roosevelt's order calling for a 2,000,000-ton shipping pool to be used to aid nations whose defence he deems vital to the United States.

Baby Alligator Is About Eight Inches Long

Not long ago I had a chat with two boys about alligators, and they asked me quite a number of questions, including these:

"How far is it from the tip of an alligator's nose to the top of his head? What does a person use when he goes hunting alligators?"

Alligator and her eggs at hatching time.

"How powerful is an alligator's tail? How big are alligator eggs, and how big are the young ones when they hatch out? Which has a worse bite, an alligator or a crocodile?"

Those questions certainly are enough to write a story about! Indeed, I think we shall need two stories to give the answers.

The distance from "an alligator's nose to the top of his head" depends on his size. In the case of a well-grown alligator, it usually is between 18 and 36 inches.

Alligators differ a great deal in size. Many do not grow to be more than eight or nine feet long. Others reach a length of 15 feet or a bit more.

It is seldom these days that we find an alligator 15 feet long. There has been so much hunting that the larger ones have been killed off for the most part. In past times there were reports of big ones with a length of 25 feet or more, but if the reports were true the older alligators were much larger than those found nowadays.

An alligator egg is a little larger than a hen's egg. The female digs a hole in the ground and places mud and grass inside. Then she lays eggs and covers them with mud and grass. Other eggs are laid above these, and also are covered. The total number of eggs in a nest usually is from 40 to 60.

Warmth of the sunshine makes the eggs hatch about eight weeks after they are laid. The young alligators are curled up inside the eggs. When they hatch and are able to stretch out, they are much longer than the eggs. A newly-hatched alligator is about eight inches long, but weighs only two or three ounces.

The mother alligator takes as good care as possible of her young. The babies, however, have their troubles. They may be snapped up by large fish or turtles. There even is danger from full-grown male alligators who are looking around for something to eat. Perhaps the big males do not know just what they are doing; they are greedy fellows and seem to take little care about what they eat.

HOROSCOPE

JUNE 12

Good and evil appear balanced in the forecast for today. Both men and women will be inclined to stick to their usual routine rather than try anything out of the ordinary. Care should be exercised in money matters. Both Neptune and Mars are unfavorable to gambling. Persons who enter contests of any kind, today, should not trust to luck but should depend on their own ability.

London astrologers declare that Britain's leaders will retain the full co-operation of the people despite certain adverse criticisms. As the month wears on there will be even more discussion about the threat of invasion.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a very fortunate year. Children born on this day may be bright and energetic.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Tuberculosis Veterans will meet in the clubrooms, 813 Blanshard Street, at 2.30 on Thursday. As there is a fair amount of work to be planned ahead for the summer months, it is urgently requested that all members attend.

The Esquimalt Community Club will hold a cribbage game on Friday, at 8, in the Bowling Hall, Esquimalt Road.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have been corresponding with a widower for 10 years. He lives in another city and has been coming to my city about once a month and always taking me out to lunch. Now, suddenly, he has seemed to drop out of my life and I have not heard from him in months. I have written him again and again, and have got no reply. I have no idea why he has stopped corresponding with me without an explanation. I feel very badly about it, but don't know what is the next step for me to take. Shall I go to see him? Please advise me.

Answer—Well, if you have written to a man again and again without getting any reply, the best thing you can do is to break off the correspondence. And, for goodness sake, don't go to see him. That would be the worst possible move you could make.

Evidently the man has lost his taste for you and is trying in as painless a way as he knows how to apprise you of the fact that your little romance is over. Finished. Done. Why men in such situations lack the courage to come out flat and tell women where they stand, nobody knows.

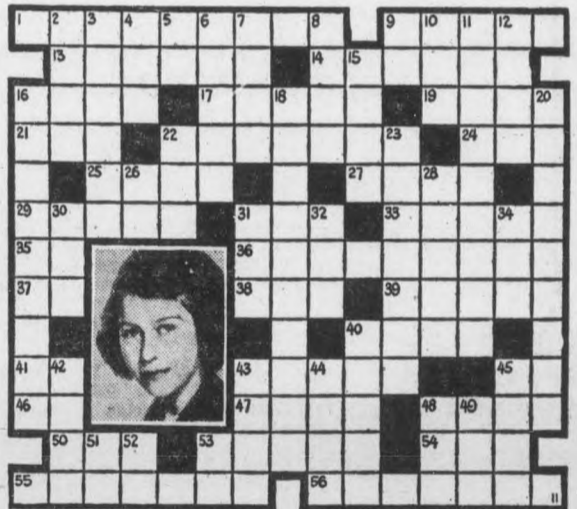

Maybe it is because they hate to admit that all the line of love talk they handed them was nothing but conversation and didn't mean a thing. Maybe it is because they still have a tenderness for their ex-loves that makes them dislike to hurt them.

But, anyway, they can't force themselves to face the music and so they just pass into the silence. They quit going to see a girl. They quit answering her letters. And, if the girl has a grain of gumption, she takes the hint and lets them go in peace. That saves her face and keeps her from being pitied by her dearest friends.

No use in asking what you have done. It isn't you. It is some other woman.

DOROTHY DIX.

No Reprieve For Teachers

The half-dozen Victoria women school teachers due for immediate superannuation, under the new pensions' act age limit of 60, will have to retire from the permanent force, but will be used as substitutes when required, the City School Board decided last night.

Those teachers had sought to continue in their permanent posts, Trustee Mrs. A. S. Christie stated in her education committee's report. Clauses of the act prevented acquiescence by the board.

That position was announced as the board named five new teachers to the permanent staff. Miss R. Wilson, substitute at George Jay for over a year, was made a permanent employee, as were the Misses P. Drummond and D. Williams of Oaklands.

T. A. Quayle, a man with practical as well as academic qualifications, was appointed an industrial arts instructor to replace W. Flenderleith, who returns to retirement.

The board also named Miss Beatrice Sutton of Powell River a commercial instructress to replace J. O. Welch, who retires from the High School on superannuation.

Japanese-Canadian Group Aims Queried

Pending a report from the building and grounds committee and the municipal inspector the City School Board last night decided to table a request from the Japanese Canadian Citizens' League for use of Victoria College during the Thanksgiving week-end on October 12 and 13.

"What are their aims?" asked Trustee F. A. Willis, adding, "In view of the international situation we might find ourselves in an invidious position if we granted this request. We don't know what may happen within the next four months."

On a motion by Trustee Mrs. A. S. Christie, the board decided to give to Fairbridge Farm School the dental chair it recently replaced with new equipment. The discarded piece was originally donated to the city and used for 40 years.

At the request of the local branch of the Navy League of Canada, through Commander C. T. Beard, the board agreed to lend that body 2,000 chairs, if it had them, for the Gracie Fields concert to be given in the Armories on July 1 and 2.

The commendation of W. H. Summerville, joint national chairman of the War Savings Committee, for Greater Victoria's school children posters advertising the war savings drive, will be communicated to all city school principals, to Miss A. Baxter, city art teacher, and Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich School Boards. Mr. Summerville, in a letter read last night, declared them the best submitted by any children in Canada.

The finance committee was asked to study and report on a proposal from the Medical Services Association regarding organization of a medical scheme for city school board employees. The matter is now under review by teachers.

Use of the Junior High School shop for a course in practical arts, included in the Summer School curriculum this year, was granted on the usual conditions, following receipt of a request from H. L. Campbell.

Tuition fees amounting to $23,785 were collected at Victoria College last year, the finance committee reported. Dissatisfaction was expressed over the action of the parent of one student who had failed to meet his promise to pay an arrears account of $108.

The contract for printing 1,200 copies of the Victoria College 1941-2 calendar was awarded to Diggon-Hibben Ltd. for $77.50.

An extra vote of $297 will be sought from the City Council to cover cost-of-living bonuses to casual workers on the school board staff who were missed in the distribution of bonuses recently.

At her request, Miss Louie Newnham, stenographer-clerk of the school board office, was granted one year's leave of absence, effective July 31, to advance her business training. The leave was granted with extreme regret by the board, who placed a high value on her services and expressed appreciation of the manner in which she had handled her duties.

Appointment of a temporary successor as well as a board secretary to succeed W. F. C. Pope was left to the chairman of the board, the chairman of the finance committee and the municipal inspector for study and a report.

Following an outline of improvement work at various schools, the building and grounds committee, under Trustee J. S. McMillan, secured support for recommendations calling for acceptance of the Melrose Co. Ltd. tender for glass work to complete the technical building at Victoria High School, and for an approach to the City Council with a request for school signs on Government Street at the Michigan intersection.

Petroleum Will Be Conserved

Gasoline Shortage Coming Howe Tells Manufacturers

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Canadians probably will be called upon soon "to curtail sharply the use of petroleum products," Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, last night told the 70th annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association here.

"Our oil controller (G. C. Cottrell of Toronto) is faced with a very threatening situation," he said. "Except in the prairie provinces, practically all our petroleum products are imported in ocean or lake tankers."

"Recently Britain has called for all available tankers, with the result that our supplies are seriously threatened."

"A large capacity pipeline is being built from Portland, Me., to Montreal and every effort is being made to adjust ourselves to the loss of transportation facilities. The fact remains that eastern Canada and eastern United States are faced with an immediate and serious shortage of gasoline and that the gasoline shortage will also be felt on the Canadian Pacific coast."

Howe paid tribute to Labor and manufacturers for their co-operation in the government's efforts to step up wartime production, and said: "We need have no inferiority complex in the matter of armament plants."

"We have in Canada the largest factory in the world producing machineguns. We have the largest plant in the English-speaking countries producing field artillery and this is the only plant manufacturing field artillery from scrap iron to the finished product."

"The government of Canada is the biggest business in Canada and public service to the state is the highest form of service," said R. B. Hanson.

Hanson said state socialism was not the answer to the problem of avoiding a repetition of depression distress, and added:

"The answer lies in the preservation of the capitalistic system, controlled, if you will, cleansed and purged of its evils, but strong enough to meet the transition from wartime to peacetime economy."

H. R. MacMillan, president of Wartime Merchant Shipping Limited, said: "Ships are not made in shipyards. They are made in factories and shops and assembled in shipyards. If there is delay it will be the factories and not the shipyards that are the bottlenecks. It is the job of my department to correct the causes of such delays."

GETTING TOUGH

J. P. D. Malkin, joint director-general of the purchasing branch, Department of Munitions and Supply, said his department was "getting a tough name for keeping manufacturers down to minimum prices."

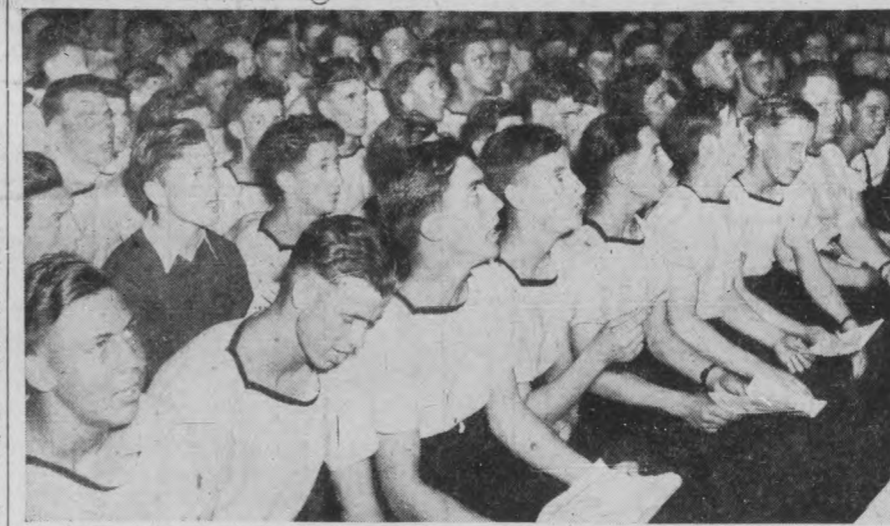

"That is our job, our sacred trust," he said. "We must be fair and realize that it isn't shareholders' money or our own that we are spending. It is sacred money and we can't play with it. If we are tough, we are just trying to do our job."

1500 Sailors Sing From Victoria to Halifax

A slanting western sun glared through the windows of the drill hall at the Royal Canadian Naval Barracks at Esquimalt late yesterday afternoon, turning the building into a mild furnace, but it failed to dampen the ardor of 1,500 officers and ratings who crammed in to make their voices heard right across Canada. It was the 14th and last "with the services concerts" staged by the CBC under the direction of jovial George Young.

At 6 on the dot the plump M.C., back to the camera, brought down his raised right arm and simultaneously 1,500 naval throats belatedly "Are we downhearted?—No! Then the men swung into the popular pep song "Here We Are Again."

From then on for the next half hour it was community singing interspersed with solos by various men, and an orchestral selection by the naval band. Louis Bon Bernard, in picture above, sang "The Dusty Road," Jim Hawthorne, "Deep in the Heart of a Rose," Jim Jenks squeezed his accordion to render "Dinah" and "Amapol," all the men breaking in on the chorus of the latter song, and the band played "The Ida and Dottie Polka."

George Young, who cracked jokes and lustily led the singing, said smilingly that this was the best of all the concerts he had M.C'd on his trip across Canada. Nowhere, he said, did he get the response that was given by the tars of the Royal Canadian Navy at Canada's farthest west defence post.

Will Fight for Love and Title

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Tommy Forte will be fighting for "love" as well as the world bantamweight title when he tangles with champion Lou Salica in a 15-round at Shibe Park tomorrow night.

Forte is to be married to his neighborhood sweetheart, Mildred Cangelosi, on July 12, and he intends to march to the altar as the new champion.

"I don't want to disappoint her again," remarked the 22-year-old scrapper from South Philadelphia, referring to the 15-round decision he lost to Salica in their first title bout last January.

In that engagement Forte closed Salica's left eye in the eighth round and had the champion on the verge of a knockout in the 13th, but lacked the experience to finish the smart 118-pounder from Brooklyn.
